THE EDITOR
SAYS—

The sudden death of Edmund P. Crowe at his home in Dexter Monday evening, came as a shock to us who called him a friend. The newspaper fraternity thru-out Southeast Missouri will greatly miss his editorials as they were generally seasoned with spice that left no unpleasant afterthought in the minds of those mentioned. Personally, we shall miss him greatly as he has signally honored The Standard editor with his darts of wit that never left a sting. Death came to him as he probably wished, suddenly, and without a long and suffering seige of sickness. Whatever he beyond the River of Death, we trust St. Peter will open wide the gates and admit Sir Edmund and in the books to be balanced find much to the credit of our friend that came from a big heart to offset any frailties that he might have had.

The American Federation of Labor officials have sent out letters to all Congressional nominees asking their stand on the 30-hour week and a number of other questions that may be good or bad. These questionnaires should be placed in the pigeon hole or waste basket, and advise the A. F. L. that when the time comes to pass on any measure that is presented to Congress, full and due consideration will be given same. This goes for members of the Legislature, too.

The Standard will refrain from any unseemly tactics during the campaign now beginning, but stand ready to heave as much ugly stuff as anyone if our Republican friends start anything. We shall vote the ticket straight and advise all Democrats to do likewise.

A man by the name of Bilbo was elected United States Senator from Mississippi Tuesday by a majority of some 5000. In his campaign he stated if he was elected he would out-huey Huey. The country can now prepare for the worst between Long and Bilbo.

Sikeston needs a number of fairly modern houses that can be rented for a reasonable sum. Right now seven families are forced to other towns for houses as not a single one can be found in Sikeston. Many houses now occupied by two families, roomers can hardly find a bed to sleep in. Wish some folks with money, or credit, would put up a few modern duplex buildings, while help is plentiful and building material reasonable.

In another column will be found the County Republican Ticket as filled to date. From Sikeston W. E. Hollingsworth, Republican, was selected to oppose C. E. Felker, Democrat, for Collector. George W. Kirk, Republican, against W. P. Wilkerson, Democrat, for Prosecuting Attorney. Rogge A. Bailey, Republican, against C. C. White, Democrat, for Representative. Three mighty fine men have consented to be offered for the slaughter in order to fill out the Republican ticket.

The Supreme Court at Jefferson City ordered the four negroes sentenced at Caruthersville to one year in jail and $1000 fine, released on a habeas corpus, whatever that is. Anyway, these negroes will always remember Caruthersville and never go back there.

J. C. Ensor of Monroe City, Mo., called The Standard editor over the phone from a Sikeston filling station Wednesday afternoon. He never knew us but knew we were a brother of the Blantons in Monroe county that he did know. Sorry not to have met him personally.

The Standard editor enjoyed a visit the latter part of the week from J. M. Bennett and his son, M. H. Bennett, living near East Prairie. They report some mighty good corn in their neighborhood.

Thursday morning fourteen men were loafing on the corner near the Sterling Stores when a relief scout called on them to see if any of them wanted work. None of them did, though one man said if he wanted to work, he knew where he could find 40 acres of corn to cut. A local officer stated any number of men remained at home, in the house or on the porch, in order not to be seen in case they were offered work, as they preferred to loaf and be fed from relief headquarters.

A Sikeston woman who has been receiving relief for a long time, recently wrote to the President telling him of the bunch of crooks in charge of relief at the Sikeston headquarters. The letter was forwarded to Mr. Oldham, in charge of this district, who called at the local headquarters for an investigation. Miss Audrey Chaney, John A. Young and Rev. E. H. Orear are the three crooks specially mentioned, which we all know is not so, and still they are trying to help the unfortunate and the ungrateful.

Bertha Rhodes, a mighty good colored cook, wishes a position in some Sikeston family. She can be found at the cabin on the C. C. Pinnell place.

Ed Crowe, Well Known Dexter Publisher Dies

Dexter, September 18.—Ed P. Crowe, editor and owner of the Dexter Statesman, died unexpectedly at his home last night at 8:30. Crowe was the victim of heart disease and fell into the arms of his wife as he arose from his chair in the sitting room of his home and started to the bathroom. He never regained consciousness after he was stricken and passed away within a few minutes after Dr. Frank LaRue had answered the hurried call.

Edmond Pendleton Crowe has been for nearly 25 years one of the outstanding as well as one of the most versatile newspaper men in the State. His humorous editorial quips, his penetrating understanding of human nature, his love of the common man and the zest and joy he got out of life, marked him among many.

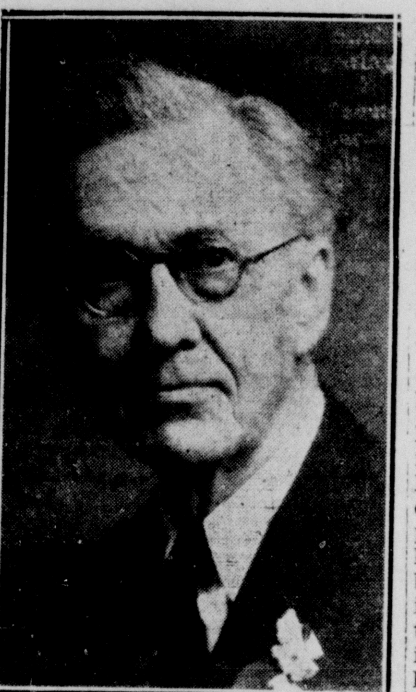

He was born at Hartford, Ky., July 21, 1868, and started his newspaper experience at the age of 18 as a reporter on an Eddyville, Ky., paper. From Eddyville he went to the Louisville Courier-Journal, where he worked as a reporter and feature writer under the guidance of the inimitable editor, Colonel Henry Waterson.

Endowed with a high sense of wit and humor and a gift of easy-flowing expression, it was natural that he drift onto the lecture platform. He was a favorite lecturer and anti-saloon lecturer for 15 years, covering 28 States of the Union from Kansas to the Atlantic coast.

In 1910 he decided to make Sikeston his home, but soon changed his mind, moved his family to Dexter and started the Dexter Statesman, which he has owned and edited since.

The call of the lecture platform was so strong in his blood that after he had taken on the duties of the operator of a weekly newspaper, he again answered the urge of the open forum and campaigned over some 30 counties of Missouri as a champion of local opinion in his opposition to licensure saloons.

In his early life he held the pastorate of a Methodist church in Louisville for five years and had been a communicant of that organization all his life. Of recent years he had given much of his time to his church obligations. Crowe was a positive character. He was always for or against. At the masthead of his newspaper he carried this statement: "Always Stand True to the Common People." He was intensely human. He could rise to the heights of the loftiest emotions and yet shared with the average man frailties that made him sympathetic. His common humanity was expressed in his attitude toward a little Spitz poodle that for years has been his most worshipful slave and which he called "Hell Roarin' Nick." The dog was his constant companion during his waking hours.

His wife and two sons survive, the latter being Henry of New York City and Hardin, manager of the Statesman. Other near relatives are the Rev. John M. Crowe of Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Charles R. Crowe and Mrs. Nathan Moore, both of Louisville, Ky.

Funeral services will be held at the Crowe home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in the Dexter cemetery.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

Hollingsworth to Run For County Collector

Additional candidates for Scott County offices on the Republican ticket were named Tuesday evening at a meeting of the County Republican Central Committee in Benton.

Among them are W. E. Hollingsworth of Sikeston, candidate for county collector, who will oppose C. E. Felker; Roger Bailey, also of Sikeston, for county representative in the State legislature, opposing C. C. White; Elmer Dannemuller, for county recorder, opposing H. F. Kirkpatrick; and Louis Dohogne, for associate judge of the county court from the second district, opposing Peter Gosche.

The following candidates were also chosen: August F. Roden-mayer for constable of Kelso township; W. G. Maddox for justice of the peace in Sylvania township; Charles F. Henley for constable of Sylvania township; Syd Hampton for constable of Tyng township; and Marion Murphy for justice of the peace in Morley township.

At a committee meeting in Benton Thursday, Judge G. J. H. Coy was selected as the Republican candidate for presiding judge of the county court, George W. Kirk as prosecuting attorney, and several other men as candidates for justices and constables.

The work of filling the Republican ticket will be continued at a session of the committee in Benton Tuesday evening.

Move Made Because of Great Demand for Loans

The transfer of the offices of the Sikeston Production Credit Association from the Derris building, where it had been located since its organization two months ago, to larger and more spacious quarters in the Stalcup building on the corner of New Madrid and Front streets, was made necessary, according to S. B. Hardwick, secretary-treasurer of the association, because of the increased demands for loans, and as well as an increase in the number of inquiries regarding loans.

The Sikeston Production Credit Association is a consolidation of the Benton, Charleston, and New Madrid Production Credit Associations, and serves the farmers in the counties of Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau. The capital stock of the Association is $170,000, and there is practically no limit to the amount that may be loaned.

These Production Credit Associations, of which there are fifteen or more in this state, are supervised by the Production Credit Corporation of St. Louis. This credit system which covers the United States, was made possible by an Act of Congress, of May, 1933, and provides for the creation of a permanent, cooperative production credit system for agricultural purposes, including the producing and harvesting of crops, breeding, raising and fattening of livestock, also dairy loans. The loans are made from three to twelve months, and at present bear 5 per cent, the interest being charged on a yearly rather than a flat basis.

E. P. Coleman, Jr., of the E. P. Coleman Cotton Company is president, and Fred Hetlage, of the McGee-Hetlage Mercantile Company, is vice-president, of the association.

Taylor and Willie Frances Sheppard, both of this city, will be surprised to learn of their recent wedding which took place Wednesday, Sept. 19, at 11 o'clock at the Nazarene parsonage in this city. ## THIEF CAPTURED AT END OF UNUSUALLY VIGOROUS CHASE

Trooper Melvin Dace, who specializes in driving off what is commonly called the "beaten path", returned here Tuesday after one of the most unusual rides ever recorded which ended in the capture of a jail-breaking bandit in a cow pea field following a chase which led through corn fields and over country roads.

At noon Tuesday, when Trooper Dace and Ney Duggan, a bus and truck inspector for the Missouri Public Service Commission, were riding south on Highway 61 below Caruthersville, they passed a car which had been pulled off the pavement and parked near a house. Suspicious of the automobile, a 1932 Chevrolet coach bearing an Oklahoma license, and of three men who were lounging in it, Dace slowed down and stopped his machine preparatory to questioning the men. But as he began to back up the highway, the three men, suddenly alert, started their car and immediately headed it, not onto the pavement, but toward a cornfield near the house. Then began a ride more exciting and unusual than a steeplechase.

Trooper Dace backed his car further up the highway and turned into the road by the house and drove on into the cornfield.

In the bottom lands the corn grew very thick, and although the fugitives gained a wide distance from their pursuers by their sudden, unexpected start, they were forced to plow down the corn and beat a path through the field. Over the steep furrows of the field the two cars went, one breaking the corn and sending it high into the air, winding precariously among the stalks so that the officers could seldom see it, the other following close behind. Trooper Dace gripping his steering wheel, Duggan bouncing about with nothing to grasp, expecting always to strike a stump which would send the officer's car to destruction, thinking perhaps the fleeing men would stop around a bend to breathe and fire into the pursuing car as it approached. On they sped, going between forty and fifty miles an hour, leaping the furrows and an occasional deep ditch.

When the chase was finally ended and other officers inspected the fields and roads over which the cars were driven they could not tell how the ride was accomplished; no more could the two officers who played the principal parts in it.

At last the three men led the officers from the trampled cornfield onto the road to Micoia, Mo., an exceedingly rural road filled with ruts and holes. Now the pursuing car was going seventy miles an hour down the rough road, the officers seeing almost nothing except great clouds of dust made by the bandit's machine, though sometimes noting the faces of astonished natives, standing on the roadside or trying to pass in their own cars.

Get a gun and break out the windshield, Trooper Dace told Duggan as he held the wheel and pressed the accelerator. And Duggan, still bouncing with nothing to grip, finally succeeded in turning around and reaching in the rear of the car and getting a gun. Not that one, Dace told him. Get the big one. And again the bus and truck inspector managed to turn and to find another gun.

Then as he prepared to shatter the windshield, Duggan was tossed about and his aim thrown awry so that the gun was either headed for the floor or the side window or the roof. At last he did strike the windshield, however, and broke it "all to hell", someone later said. But he could not see to shoot at the bandits and the great clouds of dust now swept into the patrol car as it continued its wild journey.

And then the dust was gone and the road clear ahead and Trooper Dace knew that the three men had again sought safety in a cornfield adjoining the road. Turning he followed them. Once more he drove over furrows and ditches, this time in corn nine feet high, watching the tracks left by the bandit car.

Not long afterward he came upon the car, empty except for loot, and abandoned by the fugitives. You stay here, he told Duggan, starting off to summon aid, firing in the air as he went to notify the natives. At a house nearby he called his headquarters here to ask the help of Captain A. D. Sheppard and Trooper O. L. Wallis, who were sitting in the office. Then he talked to the natives, who were at first frightened and incredulous, thinking perhaps that he was drunk or wild, but who were later eager to search for the three fleeing men.

It was a gala day for the natives. Joyously they gathered to form a posse, bringing what guns they possessed since Trooper Dace had none to give them. One community father, mounting a high barn and sitting down with a shotgun flung across his legs, managed the activities of the hunters, who, walking abreast down the long field high with corn, could not see each other and so were forced to communicate with the barn sitter for directions.

Out of the cornfield and over a ditch and onward the men walked, augmented by Captain Sheppard and Trooper Wallis, who arrived soon after the posse was formed. The line progressed into a cow pea field, where the peas sometimes grew as high as three feet, the men walking slowly down the field in a strange wide procession.

Suddenly a native lad stumbled and was almost speechless. He had stepped on a man. Others, coming to help him, found Stephen W. Stone buried in the peas because he had wriggled in among them and under them until he was completely covered.

Stone was the only man captured, for after trailing the other two men to a thick dense marsh, the officers lost them and abandoned the search.

In the Chevrolet car, which had only one flat tire after the race, they found a strange assortment of loot, including six sawed-off shotguns and rifles, which were probably not used only because of lack of opportunity, hats, shirts, underwear, women's dresses, children's stockings, caps, overalls, jumpers, neckties, gloves, raincoats, mackinaws, a sack of meal, rulers, pencils, and hacksaws.

Most of these articles, they discovered, were stolen recently from the Stella Hardware Company at Stella, Newton County, Missouri.

In the car, as well, but not belonging to the same group, officers discovered a script warrant from Carter County, a fishing rod, dress shirts, and underwear, which were not immediately placed.

At Caruthersville, where Stone was taken Tuesday night to be placed in the Pemiscot County jail, officers learned that Stone, 28 years old, of Kenwood, Okla., who last month was being held in jail at Jay, Okla., on a charge of stealing a harness, and his two companions, Dewey Pankey of Caruthersville and Raymond Foster of numerous towns in Oklahoma, both in jail to face charges of highway robbery, had escaped from their cells on August 4.

Several days later, in Delaware County, Oklahoma, they kidnapped Earl Coppage, threatening him with guns and taking him for a ride before releasing him and driving on with his automobile. Not long afterward, on about September 12, the three men abandoned this car and stole a Ford pickup truck at Lowry's store on Brush creek in Oklahoma.

This information the officers obtained from Stone, who, in a statement, confessed his part in numerous thefts and robberies. But where the Chevrolet was found was not immediately learned. Neither was there a sudden decision regarding the disposition of Stone.

Oklahoma will want him for his original charge, for breaking jail, for holding up, and for stealing an automobile; the federal government may want him for possessing an unregistered gun, for kidnapping and for violation of the Dyer act, for which one of his companions, Pankey, is believed to have served a term already; and Missouri may want him in Carter and Newton counties for questioning about burglaries and in Pemiscot for possessing stolen property.

Supreme Court Orders Four Negroes Released

Jefferson City, September 18.—On the ground that they were not given a legal trial, the State Supreme Court late yesterday ordered the release of four St. Louis negroes held in the Pemiscot county jail at Caruthersville because of their activities as organizers for a negro society.

Ella Brown, Sam Sawyer, Robert Thomas and Dave Johnson, who had gone to Steele, Pemiscot county, to organize a local chapter of the "Pacific Movement of the Eastern World", were released on writs of habeas corpus. They were confined under sentences of one year's imprisonment and $1000 fines.

Attorneys for the four negroes contended they were not charged with violating any State or federal laws and were not given a fair trial last Tuesday. Before a justice of the peace pronounced sentence, the four were beaten by a courtroom crowd.

Body of Well Dressed Man Found in River

The body of a well-dressed man about 40 years old was found late Wednesday afternoon on the Missouri side of the Mississippi river, 100 yards from the Belmont landing near Charleston. The discovery was made by a fisherman.

After an investigation of the body, which had evidently been in the river for some time since it was badly decomposed, Corporal Paul Hackney of Mississippi County, who was summoned to the scene of the discovery, stated that the man had apparently committed suicide. His body bore no marks of blows or gunshot wounds or other forms of violence.

At the conclusion of the investigation, the man was buried on the river bank near the place where his body was found in the water.

Since all ordinary marks of identification were missing from the man's clothing his name and residence were not immediately learned.

He had dark hair and blue eyes, according to Corporal Hackney. He weighed about 150 pounds and was five feet, seven inches tall. His teeth, as well as his hair, were well preserved.

He was clothed in silk underwear of one-piece, a green plaid shirt, dark trousers, suspenders, and congress house shoes. The only article in his pockets was a white handkerchief with a tan border.

NEW HIGHWAY SIGNS BEING SET IN PLACE

The new neon stop signs which were erected at the intersection of Highways 60 and 61 east of town last week-end, will be completed this week, according to Granville Phillips, maintenance engineer at the division number ten office of the State Highway Department here.

The concrete bases were constructed, the iron standards set in place, and the signs marked Stop put on the poles. The bulbs which flash light onto the glass set around the four letters of each sign are working, but the neon tubing, which was to have been placed in the large bulb's eyes above the signs, was broken when it arrived here. New tubing is expected by Saturday, however.

To complete the project of erecting wooden arrows pointing to the Highway 61 cutoff in town, highway department employees are now completing the work of constructing and painting several signs which are to be placed in the business district.

The enlarged sign and arrow pointing to Sikeston, which is be-

Programs for District Club Sessions Arranged

Plans for the entertainment of the seventy delegates who are expected to come here Tuesday afternoon, October 2, for an annual meeting of the ninth district of federated clubs, have been virtually completed.

Mrs. C. C. White, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. E. H. Orear and Mrs. H. E. Reuber, committee members, have already arranged programs for a luncheon, a banquet, and an evening session on October 2. The rest of the entertainment is being planned by club women of Poplar Bluff, under the direction of Mrs. Nelle Smith, district president.

Members of the state board of the federated clubs will arrive here on Monday afternoon, October 1, Mrs. White said. In the evening they will go to Morley, where they will be dinner guests of Mrs. Frank Emerson, state chairman of legislation. At the conclusion of a business meeting in Morley that night, they will return to Sikeston.

On the following morning, October 2, they will be in session at the Methodist Episcopal church here, where all convention meetings will be held. At a luncheon given for them Tuesday noon, Mrs. Nelle Smith will act as toastmistress.

Persons who will appear on the luncheon program are Mrs. J. N. Ross, who will give an invocation; Mrs. Harvey Johnson, who will play a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. H. J. Welsh; Mrs. O. F. A. Moore, a piano solo.

Between the selections on the program the district chairman, numbering about twenty-five, will be introduced.

On that same afternoon delegates to the convention will arrive here and will register at the Methodist Episcopal church from 1 until 4 o'clock. During that time an art and antique display will be open to them in the Sunday school room of the church, where members of the Jackson women's clubs dressed in old-fashioned clothing, will present a skit. Mrs. White will be happy if persons who have specimens and are willing to lend them for the exhibit will notify her.

The program which has been arranged for a banquet to be held at the church at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, October 2, is printed below.

Toastmistress, Mrs. Arch Russell.

Invocation, Mrs. D. I. L. Seabough of Jackson.

Vocal solo, Mrs. C. L. Keaton of Cairo, accompanied by Mrs. N. H. Halliday, also of Cairo.

Greetings, Mrs. DeWitt C. Chastain of Butler, president of the state federated clubs.

The evening program will be opened by an organ, violin, and piano selection given by Mrs. H. J. Welsh, Mrs. Frank Van Horne, and Mrs. Harvey Johnson. An invocation by the Rev. E. H. Orear will be followed by songs by Mrs. C. L. Keaton, accompanied by Mrs. N. H. Halliday and by official greetings by Dr. G. W. Presnell.

After a response by Mrs. James A. Finch of Cape Girardeau, Fredrick Claiborne, accompanied by Miss Clara Drew Miller of Cape Girardeau, will play a violin solo. Mrs. Chastain will then deliver an address and Mrs. E. H. Orear, accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Grigsby, will sing.

An address by Charles H. Compton of St. Louis, president of the American Library Association and assistant librarian of the St. Louis public library, will end the program.

On Wednesday business sessions will be held and selections, including several numbers by Mrs. J. C. Henderson of Cape Girardeau, for the programs, which are being arranged by Poplar Bluff club women, will be presented. Before the end of the convention, at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, a meeting place for 1935 will be chosen.

Delegates throughout the district, which extends north to St. Louis county, south to the Missouri-Arkansas line, and west half-way across the state, are expected to come here for the sessions.

DEMPSTER AMBULANCE TO BE KEPT AT SENSENBAUGH'S

Beginning this week, the headquarters for the Dempster ambulance were changed to Sensenbaugh's Super-Service Station at the corner of Kingshighway and Malone Avenue, and a twenty-four hour service or ambulance calls was inaugurated.

A modern first aid kit has been added to the Dempster ambulance for the benefit of the injured, and calls may be made either at Dempsters or Sensenbaugh's.

The increasing demand for ambulance service made this necessary, and immediate service is now available.

What Price Strikes? Billions Annually, Statistics Reveal

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Over thirteen million man-days of work were lost during 1933 as a result of labor disturbances in the United States, according to figures compiled by the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. These figures showed 1,365 disputes adding to the Nation's economic loss as a result of the wave of strikes which began last May coincident with consideration by Congress of the National Industrial Recovery Act. No compilations have been completed on the recent epidemic of strikes which President Roosevelt and General Hugh S. Johnson have sought to end by creating labor relations boards under each code authority to take the place of the National Labor Board. Using 60 cents an hour as an average wage for strikers, the National Association of Manufacturers estimates that with 13,591,442 man-days lost, the loss in wages during the year was $6,523,680,000 on a basis of eight hours per day. Labor costs generally are figured as forming 60 per cent of the total cost of manufactured products, and using that proportion as a basis, the strikes in effect last year prevented manufacture during the strikes of merchantable goods having a value of almost $11,000,000,000. That figure is virtually equal to the total taxes paid annually for support of local, state and Federal governments.

COLLEGE PAYS, ACCORDING TO STATISTICS COMPILED

Figures recently compiled by one of the leading insurance companies of the country in answer to the question "Does College Pay?" show that the average high school graduate goes to work when he is eighteen years old, reaches his maximum earning power of $2800 a year when he is fifty years old and during his entire life he will earn approximately $88,000. The college graduate does not go to work until he is 22 and reaches the maximum of $8500 per year at the age of sixty. His total life earnings will be $180,000 or $92,000 more than the high school graduate—$23,000 for each of the four years spent in college.

George Irving, veteran character actor, formerly known as "the American father", because of the many parental roles he played on the screen, has appeared for the past year only as a lawyer, judge or doctor. He keeps his "professional" record unbroken by being a physician in "Pursued", a new Fox film featuring Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory, Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie, which comes to the Malone Theatre, Saturday.

New York business men literally swarmed into the City Hall in protest against Mayor La Guardia's proposed one-half of 1 per cent gross receipts tax. The Board of Aldermen agreed to delay passage. Grover Whalen speaking for the opponents of the levy told the Aldermen that "if you had set out to devise a law to drive business out of New York, you could not have done better".

Vivian Hunter, former Ziegfeld beauty, who quit the stage to become the confidential secretary of Gunnar Axel Larson millionaire cement manufacturer of New York, has sued him for $1,000,000 because she lost her job. She claims she had a contract for life that was to pay her $200 a week. In addition, she claims Larson socked her on the jaw while they were in Europe, and she thinks the smack alone was worth $600,000.

Princess Alexandrovna, once a member of the Czar's household, is living on public charity in London, Ontario. She is the wife of Cecil John Wildebank, an Englishman, whom she married when he was a consular attaché in Constantinople, where she served as an interpreter after the Russian revolution. The family is now destitute.

Rosemary Ames has been signed to a new contract for another year by Fox Film. The award followed completion of "Pursued", in which she is featured with Victor Jory, Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie, and which comes to the Malone Theatre, Saturday.

is the most important
quality in gasoline
... say Authorities

WHAT does it take to make a gasoline "great"? Four oil experts tell you in their statements at the right.

They emphasize volatility . . . and Phillips 66 is famous for high volatility. Besides, this volatility is scientifically controlled, month by month, to make this greater gasoline a star all-weather performer.

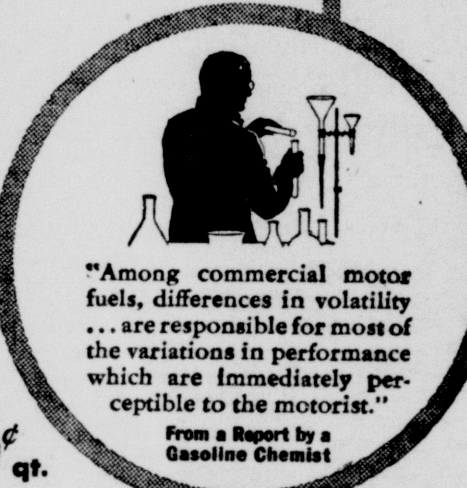

Your engine always runs better, because the gas you get at a Phillips pump is correctly "tailored" for the particular weather you are having. You actually feel the difference in your motor . . . in increased speed and power . . . peppier pick-up . . . reduced noise and no-knock . . . plus extra mileage in every gallon.

We invite you to try a tankful, to see for yourself the outstanding improvement given by extra volatility, at no extra cost, at any Orange and Black 66 shield.

"Among commercial motor fuels, differences in volatility . . . are responsible for most of the variations in performance which are immediately perceptible to the motorist."

From a Report by a Gasoline Chemist

"During the past six years' exhaustive study . . . much has been found out about what is required of good gasoline. Of these requirements, the most obvious is volatility."

From a Book Published by a Petroleum Association

"Outstanding in the characteristics of improved motor fuel . . . for superior performance . . . is volatility."

The Public Utility Companies Of Missouri Are Lightening Your Tax Burden!

The Public Utility Companies of Missouri are its largest tax payers. They contribute more than $8,000,000 annually toward Federal, state, county, school and municipal taxes.

Contrast this liberal donation to the tax funds of the state with the fact that municipally owned utilities are exempt from taxes on over $100,000,000 worth of property.

You, as a tax payer, have to make up your share of these missing taxes. It means extra dollars every year you must pay and from which you derive no benefit.

There is no sound economic reason for the existence of municipal plants.

The citizens of municipal towns pay an average of 12% more for service—and supply the capital for building the co-operative plants without return of principal or interest.

Why let anyone advocate such an outworn institution without registering your protest as a citizen and tax payer?

Two Paraguayan soldiers captured 1500 Bolivian soldiers and brought them into camp. The Paraguayans had been captured two weeks ago in El Gran Chaco and were being taken to the Bolivian base. Recipes for the Fishing Season

NOW THAT the season is open, the wife of a fisherman must stand ready at a moment's notice to accept with pleasure any or all of the offerings of his rod. Sometimes it means well ordered plans must be laid aside, but the wise wife of a seasoned sportsman knows how to rise to the occasion. She can dress and cook any fish in an experienced manner that will add comfortable afterglow to the sport. And well she knows the importance of preparing her fish in a sauce that will coax out all the bland delicate overtones of fish flavor. Her problem is simple next to that of the seventeenth century housewife who must have struggled with a sauce made by this recipe:

"Take a little boiling Fish Liquor and a little White Wine, a Sprig, more or less, of large Mace, Limon-Peel, Shetol, Anchovies, and a Clove or two, and boil them together. Then put in your Butter, and let it just boil up very quick; and having placed Sippets on your Dish and your Fish on the Sippets, Pour on your Sauce, garnish with Prawns, stewed Oysters, and Horse Radish."

But the more fortunate modern housewife merely blends subtle excellent sauces from the prepared condiments on her pantry shelf. The following suggestions for preparing fish will enhance any catch.

Baked Fish with Tartar Sauce—

Wash and dry trout or other fish carefully. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge lightly with flour. Place 6 strips bacon over the top and surround with about ½ cupful water. Bake frequently using 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour. The fish may be cut into individual servings or baked in one large piece. Serve with Tartar Sauce made by mixing ¾ cup Sandwich Spread with ½ cup Mayonnaise.

Baked Fish with Mustard Sauce—

Cut 1½ lbs. fillet of haddock or other fish into 6 servings and season lightly with salt and pepper. Lay in shallow, well greased baking pan. Make a sauce as follows: Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and blend well. Add 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon Prepared Brown Mustard, and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened (about 3 minutes). Pour over the fish. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter to ½ cup dried bread crumbs and sprinkle over fish. Bake in a not oven (400° F.) for about 20 minutes.

Baked Stuffed White Fish or Haddock—

Wash 1 medium size fish carefully, dry, sprinkle with salt and pepper, stuff, sew up with twine and put in a pan, dredge lightly with flour and place 6 strips bacon over the top. Add enough water to keep from scorching (about ½ cup). Bake frequently, using 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour. Serve with Tomato Sauce made by adding a small amount of flour to 1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup. Cook until thickened.

Fish Stuffing—Combine 2 cups dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, pepper to taste, few drops onion juice and 1 tablespoon chopped Preserved Sweet Midget Gherkins, and mix thoroughly. This makes a dry crumbly stuffing.

Fish with Tomato Sauce—Cut 2 lbs. fish into individual servings. Spread a thin layer of Prepared Brown Mustard over fish and allow to stand for 10 minutes. Dip in 1 beaten egg and then into dry bread crumbs. Fry in butter to a golden brown and serve with Tomato Sauce.

Tomato Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 2 tablespoons flour and stir until well blended. Add ½ teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, ¼ teaspoon onion juice and 1 cup milk, and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from fire, and add ¼ cup Tomato Ketchup.

One of the greatest movements of gold in the world's history was carried out without incident when metal ingots variously estimated as worth from 11,500,000,000 to $2,250,000,000 were transported from the San Francisco Mint to the Denver Mint. The last of such shipments started several weeks ago. The transfer was made to avoid "earthquake hazard", the Treasury announced.

"Etable Tree", one of the oldest living things in the world and the pride of the Mariposa Grove in Yosemite National Park, crashed to earth. Its age was estimated at 4000 years. A redwood, it was 266 feet tall; its girth at the base was 92 feet. It was so named because army cavalry in other days quartered its horses in the enormous hollow at the base of the tree.

Dorothy Thompson, American writer and wife of Novelist Sinclair Lewis, expelled from Germany by Nazi order, told friends in Paris: "Chancellor Hitler is no longer a man; he is a religion. Germany is a charming country, but it is becoming the most comfortable and most hygienic prison in the world". She assumes that the reason for her expulsion was an article written three years ago, in which she criticised the Nazi movement.

Tom Scott, late candidate for County Collector of Scott County, was in Southeast Missouri a few days ago and wanted his friends to know that there is no sore spots about his defeat for the nomination, that he is a Democrat, that he shall be home for the election vote for, and do what he can to elect Felker, and expects his friends to do the same. That sounds just like Tom Scott.

RELATES CONFLICTING TALES AT STROUP TRIAL

Repudiating a fantastic story which he told earlier in the day during the trial of Ivan Bob Stroup of Cape Girardeau, who is charged with complicity in the robbery and murder of Frank Roseme at Rockview in Scott County last December and whose case was opened in the Cape Girardeau circuit court in Jackson Tuesday, Robert McKerley, now serving a life term in the Missouri penitentiary for the hammer slaying of a Chaffee taxi cab driver, stated late Wednesday afternoon that he did not know who killed Roseme.

On Wednesday morning, McKerley, who was taken to Jackson Sunday to be a State witness in the trial, absolved Stroup by declaring that he and another man, whose name was not publicly disclosed, had planned to rob Roseme, and that he had stood on the merchant's store porch while his companion went in and obtained money and presumably killed Roseme. Again in the afternoon he repeated his story, even telling numerous details about the robbery, including the amount of money which he received for his share.

Spectators, jurors, and attorneys were surprised then when after leaving the courtroom with Chief Deputy Warden Tom Scott for a ride back to Jefferson City, McKerley decided to return and tell the "honest truth".

After declaring he does not know Roseme's slayer, McKerley added that he was willing to attend the trial and to testify because he had been threatened by another prisoner at the penitentiary, Clifton Erwin.

He denied that he had been offered $1000 to absolve Stroup, but said he had received a note in the prison stating that his "life would be short" if he did not testify in favor of Stroup. At the conclusion of the hearing, officers attempted to learn if the Erwin mentioned by McKerley were not Hardin Erwin, who was given a twenty-year prison term last February in Charleston for holdup. McKerley, accompanied by Scott, returned to Jefferson City.

The man at first named by McKerley was taken to Jackson on Wednesday for questioning. His denial of complicity in the murder was at least partially substantiated by work records. He was not held after the repudiation.

Meanwhile, the trial proceeded with the testimony of various witnesses, including Fred Heeb, a resident of Kelso, H. J. Welsh, coroner of Scott county, John Hobbs, Chaffee marshal, R. E. Stewart, special agent for the Frisco railroad, and Sheriff Joe Anderson.

Stroup is the third person to be tried for the murder of Roseme. Otto Menz, convicted this summer, is now serving a fifteen-year sentence for complicity in the slaying. His wife, Mrs. Edith Menz, is now waiting for a new hearing, following the inability of jurors to reach a decision at her first trial, which lasted for ten days.

WHEN CARGARS "CHANNEL" BEWARE

When car gears can cut a channel through your gear lubricant it should mean two things to you—DANGER, for one—WRONG LUBRICANT for another.

For winter driving your gear lubricant must flow evenly around the gears even under the coldest winter driving conditions. Vitality important because the colder it gets the more brittle steel becomes.

Alemite Winter Gear Lubricant positively will not solidify or even get stiff under the coldest driving temperatures. THIS ALSO INSURES FINGER-TIP EASY GEAR SHIFTING.

This lubricant eliminates the estimated 90% of axle and transmission breakdowns with consequent costly replacements, traceable to poor quality gear lubricant.

You will find Alemite Winter Gear Lubricant all PURE LUBRICANT. No tar-like, sticky, non-lubricating "filler". Absolutely safe gear protection no matter how high the speed or heavy the winter service asked of it.

There is no acid of acid residue in this lubricant. It is also so thoroughly fluid at all times that it flows through the small spaces in the transmission of the new cars which depend upon lubricant from the transmission to lubricate other units.

INSTANT STARTING INSURED! No drag on batteries in starting. "MOST ECONOMIC" WINTER GEAR LUBRICANT" because it saves and prevents the wear which causes big repair bills.

ST. LOUIS CONTRACTOR TO BE HERE SATURDAY

Ed H. A. Volkman, president of the Victor Architectural and Building Co. of St. Louis, who wrote here recently about a proposed building program to eliminate the present shortage of living quarters in Sikeston, will be here Saturday to discuss tentative building plans with interest civic leaders. The session will be held in the offices of the Missouri Utilities Company on Center street at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

In a letter to John G. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, which was received yesterday, Mr. Volkman said, "Primarily it would be necessary to familiarize myself by personal survey prerequisite to the preliminary considerations."

It would seem, tentatively speaking, that some workable plan can be devised to meet the exigency in a practical way, which may require some reasonable time and preparation on my part before the same can be submitted for proper consideration. It would be essential for me to get some preliminaries as to possible availability of suitable site, ground values, rental standards, sanitation and whatever facilities now exist, also materials and supplies available locally or nearby. At this time I would be able to give intensive service in promoting such an activity to benefit your city and I am pleased to have your proffered organization co-operation towards a helpful solution."

The need for houses, apartments, or duplexes here is well-known. Numerous persons are now living inconveniently in inadequate and uncomfortable quarters because they have no choice. A few have even left Sikeston for other towns since they could not find places to live in here; and seven families connected with the district administrative office of the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission, ordered to move here from Poplar Bluff and establish headquarters, are now attempting to transfer their offices to Cape Girardeau because they have been unable to find either apartments or houses in Sikeston.

SIKESTON WINS MAJOR GOLF TOURNEY LAURELS

The Sikeston Golf experts won the lion's share of the trophies offered by the Southeast Missouri Golf Association in their Annual Championship Matches held at Cape Girardeau between September 9 and September 16, 1934.

Sonny Lee, eighteen-year-old juvenile star golfer of the Sikeston club, won the championship event with a score of 253 strokes for the 63 holes played. Orville Lumsden, champion of last year, was tied for second place in this championship match with Emmett Stuber of Cape Girardeau and John Phillips of Poplar Bluff, each of these three players playing the 63 holes in 256 strokes. Lumsden, at the end of the 27 holes of qualifying play, was 3 or 4 strokes in the lead, but had one bad round in the final matches played on the 16th, which cost him the match. Forty-eight players took part in this Annual Tournament.

The match this year was played in the following manner: Players were given from the 9th to the 15th of September to play 27 holes of qualifying golf, which was used to classify them according to their score. Due to a week of rainy weather, some of the better players of Southeast Missouri had rather high qualifying scores. After the qualifying rounds were played, the players were classified as follows: The eight men having the lowest qualifying scores were placed in the Championship Flight. The next ten men were placed in Class A Flight. The next twelve men were placed in Class B Flight, and the remainder of the players were placed in Class C. It was arranged then, so that the players would compete only with the other players in their respective flights.

G. W. Kirk of Sikeston won the Class A Championship, playing the 63 holes in 268 strokes. Morris Sisler of Dexter was second with 271. Renfro Gibbs of Cape Girardeau won the Class B match with 206 strokes. Tom Ferguson of Cape Girardeau won the Class C match with 309 strokes. Six players from the local club competed in these matches: H. J. Kirk qualified for the Championship Flight, but did not place. Jim Sidwell and Ray Burns qualified for Class B Flight, but did not place. Prizes were awarded the first three men having the lowest score in each flight.

Sonny Lee qualified for the Championship Flight with 111 strokes, which was eight strokes behind the leader, Lumsden of Sikeston. He played his 36 holes of the final match, however, in real championship style, making a 34 and a 36 on his two morning rounds and a 35 and a 38 for his afternoon rounds, which gave him a total of 143 strokes for the 36 holes, which was only 3 over par for the course. Due to the heavy rains during the week, the course was not in the best of condition. Sikeston has now won the championship for two straight years, which is quite a record for the local club. This was the Seventh Annual Tournament held by the Golf Association. Three members of the local club have won this tournament a total of four of the seven years. Pickett of Farmington won the first tournament held, in 1928. Marty of Farmington won the championship in 1929. Kirk, who now plays with the Sikeston club, won the championship in 1930 and repeated in 1931. Schwab of Cape won in 1932, Lumsden in 1933, and Sonny Lee is the champion for 1934.

DOCTORS' AID IN MALARIA RELIEF PROGRAM PRAISED
That physicians have given invaluable assistance to relief agencies by writing free prescriptions for quinine for malaria control among families on and near relief is well-known by relief officials throughout the State. The fact that their willing cooperation has made possible the distribution of quinine to these families is not so generally known by the public, however.

In a letter to county chairmen, Frank C. Oldham, district administrator of the eighth area of the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission, emphasized this point.
"Doctors in some Counties have done a splendid job in co-operating with us in writing free prescriptions for quinine for malaria control," Mr. Oldham wrote, "and such co-operation is certainly appreciated by the Relief Commission and has made it possible to administer quinine for those unable to purchase same themselves."

TO BUY CORN FODDER FOR SHREDDING PURPOSES

A Government agency is going to make purchase of corn fodder in Scott County to be used in local relief work and for other drouth areas in Missouri. Earl Johnson of Sikeston, is going to represent the agency in Scott County and is now inspecting fields and purchasing the corn fodder.

The corn must be cut and shocked and then a shredder is placed on the farm, corn fodder is shredded and baled, and taken over by the agency. Mr. Johnson is now inspecting fields and is paying $2 to $3 per acre for the fodder alone. If a corn grower offers his corn field to be allowed for cutting and shocking his corn, 12 shocks to the acre. After the corn is dried out in order that it may be shredded, the shredder is then placed in along with the baler. All of the grain is kept by the farmer himself as the government is not interested in getting the grain. This means essentially that the government is paying approximately $3 to $4.20 per acre to the farmer for obtaining his corn storer. Anyone having a field they desire to offer should write a letter to Earl Johnson, Sikeston.

eston. Mr. Johnson is now, not only contracting fields, but is also trying to make arrangements to get shredders and balers ready to start as soon as the corn is ready to shred.

THE SELECTION OF OUR CIRCUIT JUDGE
No more important responsibility faces the voters of our district, than the selection of a Circuit Judge.

A Circuit Judge has the duty, of administering the laws of the State, in his circuit or district. Every citizen has a vital, personal, interest in seeing that our laws are administered fairly, impartially and intelligently.

Such an administration of law, can come only from judges, who are highly trained and experienced, and who will perform their duty fearlessly and with freedom from any personal or political influence or persuasion.

To secure judges immune from outside influence and to insure a trained and experienced judiciary, Federal Judges are appointed for life.

To secure the same type of independent and trained judges in the State courts of Missouri, it has been the uniform practice to retain in office, judges who by their service on the bench, have proven their ability and their fidelity to the cause of justice, administered without fear or favor.

We respectfully submit that our circuit judge, Frank Kelly, has the qualifications and meets the requirements outlined above; that he is highly trained and experienced, morally clean and fearless, and free from any bias, prejudice or outside influence, in the administration of our laws.

We urge that he be re-elected to the circuit bench in this district. See ad next week.

Floodway Damage Testimony
Memphis, Tenn., September 16.—Three Memphis lumbermen testified at a United States Court of Claims hearing Friday that creation of the Bird's Point-New Madrid floodway system in Southeast Missouri had made operations of lumber mills in the area difficult.

The witnesses were George Harris, vice-president of a Memphis lumber company; R. C. Stimson and A. M. Horton. The hearing followed the filing of suit by Missouri land owners asking $1,387,000 from the Federal Government for alleged damages caused by the floodway.

STATEMENT BY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE LITTLE RIVER DRAINAGE DISTRICT

There is published in this issue an official notice of a meeting of the Board of Supervisors of The Little River Drainage District, called for the purpose of ascertaining whether any landowner in the District is opposed to the refunding of the District's bonded indebtedness and accepting the offer of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to loan the District $2,405,400 with which to settle and pay off its outstanding bonds and interest aggregating about $10,000,000.

It would seem that the calling of such a meeting should be wholly unnecessary but under the law and the requirements of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the governmental agency making the loan to the District, it must be done.

The District now has outstanding bonds aggregating $8,018,000 with past due interest amounting to over $2,000,000, all of which can be compromised and settled with the loan of $2,405,400 which RFC is willing to make the District, provided its requirements are complied with.

One of these requirements is that the District authorize the issue of refunding bonds in such amount as may be demanded by RFC, but not to exceed its present outstanding bonds, and deliver same to RFC, if demanded, as security for the loan. These bonds, if issued, will bear 4% interest and mature from 1938 to 1957. As to whether these bonds will be issued and delivered to RFC is partially dependent upon the number of present outstanding bonds that are deposited and delivered to RFC. We believe the great majority of the outstanding bonds will be acquired by RFC and it may be unnecessary for the refunding bonds to be issued, but RFC requires that the formalities of the law relative to their issue be complied with, and it is to meet this requirement that the meeting is called on October 4th at Cape Girardeau in the office of the District. Unless you want to oppose the settlement, it will be unnecessary for you to attend the meeting. If you do oppose it, attend the meeting and file your protest.

In the event the loan is consummated, there will be a material reduction in taxes assessed by the District from the amount heretofore levied. You will also be able to compromise back taxes at a low rate. Under the terms of the loan, interest only will be paid on the loan for three years. RFC also requires as a condition to the loan, that the ditches of the District be put in good condition and that all brush, trees, briars and drift be removed from them and that the money required to do this work be collected from back taxes. The collection of the necessary amount of back taxes to do this work will also be spread over two or three years. This clean-out work will be started as soon as the money from back tax collections comes into possession of the District and will progress as rapidly as can be satisfactorily accomplished.

The amount of the assessment for interest and back taxes to be paid in 1934 will be certified to the collection officers as soon as the required amount has been determined and approved by RFC. We are unable to give you now, either the amount or the time when the amount will be certified to the collectors for collection, but it is anticipated they will have the books during the month of November. Inquire of them at that time. We especially urge the prompt payment of taxes as soon as the amount is certified to the collectors, so we can start clean-out work this fall.

Complete details will be made available to any landowner in the District as soon as they are worked out and approved by RFC. Your officers and employees have been diligently working to complete this settlement for several years and hope to restore value to the lands in the District. We are sure that you will agree that such a result will be beneficial to all parties concerned.

Done by order of the Board, this 17th day of September, 1934.

W. P. ANDERSON,
President, Board of Supervisors.

B. F. BURNS,
Secretary, Board of Supervisors.

Stop Chills and Fever!
Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

THE SELECTION OF OUR CIRCUIT JUDGE

No more important responsibility faces the voters of our district, than the selection of a Circuit Judge.

A Circuit Judge has the duty, of administering the laws of the State, in his circuit or district. Every citizen has a vital, personal, interest in seeing that our laws are administered fairly, impartially and intelligently.

Such an administration of law, can come only from judges, who are highly trained and experienced, and who will perform their duty fearlessly and with freedom from any personal or political influence or persuasion.

To secure judges immune from outside influence and to insure a trained and experienced judiciary, Federal Judges are appointed for life.

To secure the same type of independent and trained judges in the State courts of Missouri, it has been the uniform practice to retain in office, judges who by their service on the bench, have proven their ability and their fidelity to the cause of justice, administered without fear or favor.

We respectfully submit that our circuit judge, Frank Kelly, has the qualifications and meets the requirements outlined above; that he is highly trained and experienced, morally clean and fearless, and free from any bias, prejudice or outside influence, in the administration of our laws.

We urge that he be re-elected to the circuit bench in this district. See ad next week.

STATE TO HAVE NATIONAL PARK NEAR OZARKS LAKE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 18.—Establishment of Missouri's first national park, in the Lake of the Ozarks region, has been approved as part of the FERA program for retirement of marginal land, R. W. Selvidge, chairman of the State Planning Board and professor of industrial education at the University of Missouri, announced yesterday.

The park, to be on the south side of the lake, in Miller county, will cover approximately 10,000 acres, Dr. Selvidge said. Under present plans, it will extend along both sides of what is known as the Glaze arm of the lake. It will run south from a point where highway 54 crosses Zebra Bridge. The FERA already has begun to acquire options on the land, Dr. Selvidge said. Three Civilian Conservation Corps camps of several hundred members are to be set up to do the preliminary work. The area must be cleared of underbrush; a network of roads built, and shelter houses constructed.

The project, Dr. Selvidge explained, is one of ten new national parks which the Department of Agriculture intends to develop as soon as part of its program for planned land use. In the past, he pointed out, national parks have been chosen under a policy which aimed at preservation of "features of national significance," while the new policy is "perhaps more recreational than scenic." The new park, Dr. Selvidge said, should not be confused with the separate proposal of the Planning Board for a 250,000-acre forest preserve and wild life sanctuary encircling the entire lake. The larger project, it is understood, has reached an impasse over failure of the Federal Government and executives of the Union Electric Co., which developed the Lake of the Ozarks as a power source, to agree on a suitable price for land held by the Union Electric. The company, one informant said, is loath to cut its price.

Department of Interior officials and the National Wild Life Preservation Commission, it is said, regard the tract as one of the best natural layouts in the United States for a development of the type proposed.

Dr. Selvidge said he was hopeful of FERA approval for the purchase of land to establish a system of road side parks along Missouri highways, which would vary in size from 40 to 700 acres. One would be located at Mineola and another just north of Marshall Junction.—Post Dispatch.

ANOTHER TIME WHEN

Good light WOULD HELP

AS age increases, the pupil of the eye contracts and less light enters. That's why scientists say that people over fifty need two or three times as much light as people twenty years old. And such a task as sewing, regardless of age, requires several times as much light as reading.

Proper home lighting benefits the vision and health of every member of the family. It's so easy and inexpensive to have! Ask today for a free lighting survey.

THESE ARE SOME IMPORTANT LIGHTING RULES

1. Use lamp bulbs of the correct wattage... at least 40-watt MAZDA lamps for 3 socket lamps, 60-watt for 2 socket lamps, 100-watt for single socket lamps.
2. Have all lamp bulbs shaded. For portables, a shade light in color, wide in spread, and open at the top.
3. Never read in a glaring light, or in your own shadow.
4. Always use lamp bulbs of reputable make. Inferior ones burn out and blacken quickly.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR L. Y. NELSON MONDAY

Funeral services were held Monday morning, 10 o'clock, at the home of Walter Nelson north of this city, for his father, Lytle Yancy Nelson, aged pioneer of near this place, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Dora Leslie of Carbondale, Ill., Saturday, September 15, at the advanced age of 85 years, 8 months and 11 days.

Rev. C. F. Transue, pastor of the Sikeston Nazarene church, officiated with interment in the Big Opening Community Cemetery. Mr. Nelson was born January 4, 1849 in Princeton, Caldwell County, Ky. In 1876 he was united in marriage to Miss Fannie Hill, and to this union were born nine children, two preceeding them in death. In 1892, Mr. Nelson moved with his family to Missouri, settling in Ripley County, and in 1898 moved near Sikeston in the Big Opening Community. In 1916 he was left to follow the walks of life alone when his wife answered death's summons. Mr. Nelson was a member of the Methodist church, having been converted at the age of 28 years.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Lucy Ruffin of Kewanee, Mrs. Dora Leslie of Carbondale, Ill., and Mrs. Florence York of St. Louis; four sons, Walter Nelson of Sikeston, R. C. Nelson of Oil City, La., Leonard Nelson of near Matthews, and Wallace Nelson of Noxall, 34 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Russell Hardie, who has played opposite Lenore Ulric and Helen Mencken on the stage, plays his sixth drama role in "Pursued", drama of the Dutch East Indies, coming to the Malone Theatre on Saturday. He is featured with Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory and Pert Kelton.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS ON PROGRAM OF SEMO TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Nationally known educators will appear on the program of the Southeast Missouri Teachers' Association Convention which will be held this year on October 18 and 19 at the district teachers' college in Cape Girardeau.

Among them are Dr. E. W. Butterfield of Hartford, Conn., commissioner of education in Connecticut; Dr. T. E. Musselman of Quincy, Ill., a specialist and research worker on nature study, who is extremely popular as a lecturer; Dr. Goodwin Watson, professor of educational psychology at the teachers' college at Columbia University in New York City, who will probably speak on "Character Education"; Dr. James M. Glass of Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., an authority on secondary education, and Miss Mary England, a community worker in the State Department of Education at Montgomery, Ala.

An unusually large registration at the sessions is expected, especially since the State teachers' convention will be held this year in Kansas City, making extensive attendance from Southeast Missouri almost impossible. Other features of the district conference will include the presentation of a one-act play by students of the Poplar Bluff high school and numbers by an all-Southeast Missouri orchestra of eighty pieces under the direction of Louis Wilcox.

The program has been arranged by the executive committee, which includes the following: President, Fred L. Cole of Potosi, Washington County superintendent; vice presidents, Mrs. Ruby Thompson, Mississippi County superintendent, and Miss Mary Lee Dunn, a teacher at Centerville; secretary-treasurer, Prof. L. H. Strunk; Dr. A. C. Magill, C. E. Burton of Piedmont, and George D. Englehart, who is superintendent at Matthews.

Mrs. Mae Boyle has returned from a few weeks' visit in Arkansas and is now employed at Walker's Cafe.

Lot framed pictures, late subjects, fancy frames, usually sell for $2.00—take 'em along for $1.00 each. Oval velvet rugs, 28x40 inches, good quality, always sold for $3.00 to $3.50. While these 50 last, $1.95 each. All cotton mattresses, full size, good clean cotton $4.75. Splendid inner spring mattress with old fashion A. C. A. tick (wears like leather) for $17.50, will give satisfaction or your money back. Lots of used stoves, ranges and furniture on second floor. Take your time in paying.

WINDOW SHADE INFORMATION

Tontine window shades have just been taken on by this store. We have wanted this agency for years, but because of high wholesale prices, could not be sure of sales. A late change in price enables us to sell them at about the same cost as old style shades. On that basis we should sell hundreds of Tontines to the better homes from now on. They are 100% waterproof, therefore may be scrubbed with brush, soap and water when soiled and that without damage. They do not fade, fray, pinhole or crack after long use. Many colors in soft pleasing blends are available.

FIFTY LOW PRICED RANGES—ALL GUARANTEED

We have been "stung" several times in the purchase of ranges to sell at a low price. Something about the ranges that sold around $50.00 always seemed to be weak and gave trouble. This season we have what buyers of that class range are looking for; a plain, heavy, durable range that will bake with the best at a low figure. They are made by the owners of the old Belleville Stove Works, a reputable concern in every particular. Come in and see them. Every one bears our personal guarantee.

SUPERFLEX OIL HEATERS ARE HERE

Oil heaters made by the Perfection Company are gaining in favor rapidly. They require very, very little attention, may be regulated at any temperature desired, and deliver the heat you need minus ashes, cinders, kindling and dirt. These models you see advertised in the large magazines are on our floor for inspection. They do just what the Company says they will. Many homes need them.

S. E. MO. STRONG FOR MOORE'S

Our deliverymen have on their tape Moore's Air-Tight Heaters and Ranges for Dexter, Chaffee, Morehouse, Matthews and several farm homes in addition to many sales in Sikeston. So far, not a complaint has been filed, on the contrary buyer seems to be well pleased with purchases.

HALE, HEARTY AND HAPPY AT 87

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clemson of Chaffee called at our place recently and made a substantial purchase of floor coverings. Mr. Clemson is a veteran Missouri Pacific Railroad Man, 87 years of age and live as a cricket, both mentally and physically. His fund of information relative to Southeast Missouri history for the past 65 or 70 years is remarkable as well as interesting. It was a pleasure to listen to him recite the happenings that took place "away back when" and compare customs and manner of doing things then with those of today. The dread of "old age" as most of us view it, would largely vanish if we could so shape our lives as to reach the evening shades with the attitude of mind held by this fine old gentleman.

SEE OUR PRETTY RUGS

Our floor covering division deserves special mention at this time because of the outstanding stock of new and popular patterns that are on hand. Not before have so many different patterns been shown in this or any other small city of S. E. Mo. Prices have been made to yield only a modest profit so please look them over before making final selection. Among the new types added this season are a number of Broadloom in popular shades. Broadloom wears like buckskin and is right up to the minute in style. Time payments are satisfactory to

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Diane Lovering, whose lover for the past five years has been Richard Field—forty-eight and wealthy—has just stopped in his office for a few moments. She is in his arms when his excited secretary announces that Mrs. Field is just entering the outer office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER TWO

Stranger, Ahoy!

Diane stood rigid. Miss Robbins words had exploded in her ear with a loud sickening thud. After all this time, to meet Richard's wife like this—Her first frightened impulse was to run—run anywhere. But what was Richard saying? "I'm expecting her Miss Robbins. Miss Robbins gasped and left hurriedly. "Diane—it's happened." "You mean—she's found out? But then I'd better—" "No," Richard took her hand and pressed it reassuringly. "She consented to come, knowing that you'd be here too." Diane looked her bewildered. "She came into my room last night. She was very fine—no scene or anything like that—but simply said that she knew about us—had known for some time in fact—and she wanted to know what I was going to do." Diane's chin quivered, but she tried to hold it firm. "There's only one thing to do, Richard—" "I told her I couldn't say just then and there—had to think it over. I got up and took a walk around the park—then I went to the club for the night." "Diane—dear Diane—I have decided that there was a knock on the door. Richard opened it to a woman of about forty-five—a woman of well-preserved maturity, with an air of poised elegance about her. "Louise—this is Diane—Diane Lovering." "How do you do," Mrs. Field said simply. "How do you do Mrs. Field," Diane raised her chin a little, unashamed. "Take this chair my dear," Richard indicated another for Diane. "Louise—I wanted you to meet Mike looked again and then took a deep breath. "Yes—please." "Please—no," Diane was pleasant but firm. "Pretty, please, with sugar on it." Diane turned to him, a little exasperated. "Didn't you ever want to be left alone and not bothered by anyone?" "But don't you ever get hot and bothered and can't help it?" For answer, Diane slowly moved until just her back was visible. "Johnny drew up his collar and drank the cocktail with a gulp. "It looks like I'll have to go to the master," he informed the bartender owlishly, as he lurched off the stool and out the door.

Diane for only one reason—and that is for you to know I hadn't insulted you by becoming entangled with some—well, I guess the word is—creature."

Swiftly and concisely he sketched the simple truth of the story, their meeting and all the subsequent happenings. "So you see Louise, that's how it happened. She hasn't your protection in the community, but she's kept on loving me—seeing only me—waiting on—on 'Back Streets,' don't they call it?—only for me."

Impulsively, Diane interrupted. Tears glistened in her eyes. "I do love him, Mrs. Field—at least, that's honest."

Mrs. Field looked at her with a level gaze. "I believe you do," she observed evenly. She turned to Field. "What have you decided?"

"I'm asking you for a divorce, Louise," Mrs. Field started. For a second she was shaken out of her superb poise. "Oh, I can arrange it quietly and there's nothing you can't have. Naturally, the children would stay with you." A little wistfully, he added, "But perhaps you'd let me see them now and then."

"No Dick," Mrs. Field rose decisively. "I say no to everything. I don't believe in divorce. I don't want our children to believe in divorce." She moved to the door. "The children are arriving for the Easter holidays this afternoon. Are you coming home for dinner?"

"Do you wish me to?" Richard's tones were wooden.

"I know the children would," she opened the door and was gone.

With one swift movement, Richard had Diane in his arms. "You love me don't you?" Her muffled reply was answer. "Well, do you think I'm going to give that up?" Diane dear, the Amer-central's sailing tomorrow. You're going aboard her. Going away on a little trip—going to forget this—this thing that had to be. It's a little too near us for the moment. But it's just temporary Diane—and when you come back—everything will be just as before."

That night was an unreal haze to Diane. Feverishly she packed. She must not think. She must not give herself a moment.

It was only as she boarded the boat, and entered the living room of her suite, banked with flowers, that realization came to her.

She gazed around the room. "It's beautiful," she said.

Richard took her shoulders and turned her about. "And still not enough."

Richard—I wish you were coming with me. She put her hand to her mouth as if to force the words back. "No, I don't."

"There are those thoughts again," He lifted her face gently. "Don't, Diane. When you say we can't go on—I've a sudden panic that perhaps you won't come back." He was beset by a feeling of odd anxiousness. "You will come back, won't you?"

promise, Richard. Diane replied earnestly.

"I need you always, Diane. I think I'd crack up without you—now—"

Her kiss stopped him. Greedily snatching their last few seconds together, his arms refused to let her go, when suddenly the ship's whistle startled them both.

Diane looked up. "Richard, my dear—we won't have time for our cocktail."

Richard spoke to her hurriedly. "The minute the ship leaves you go to the bar and order one—and only a sherry flip, remember."

"Always a sherry flip—every day at six o'clock."

"And I'll have one ashore."

"I'll think of you, Richard."

Tears clung to her eyes wetly as Diane left the rail and made her way to the bar. Slipping onto a vacant stool next a youngish round-faced fellow passenger, already quite tight, she ordered her sherry flip, her thoughts on Richard. "A half-smile curved her lips, as the dear memory of his face rose before her. His kindness, his whole-souled love, comforted her in spite of the prospect of dreary weeks without him."

"A sherry flip—twice." She started. It was the young man beside her who had ordered. He was beaming at her broadly. "The name's John Smith—honest—John L. Smith—not much in the social register—but it's kicked around in the hotels. Just call me Johnnie. How are you and who are you?"

Diane shook her head. "No—really."

"Yes—please."

"Please—no," Diane was pleasant but firm.

"Pretty, please, with sugar on it."

Diane turned to him, a little exasperated. "Didn't you ever want to be left alone and not bothered by anyone?"

"But don't you ever get hot and bothered and can't help it?"

For answer, Diane slowly moved until just her back was visible.

Johnny drew up his collar and drank the cocktail with a gulp. "It looks like I'll have to go to the master," he informed the bartender owlishly, as he lurched off the stool and out the door.

Diane turned back and continued to sip her cocktail. Her momentary annoyance at the encounter was gone. She glanced around casually at the roomful of people. Strange she thought, how remote she felt from all of them, although they were almost touching elbows.

Then, involuntarily, in response to a relentless gaze, she glanced at the bar entrance. Her friend of the moment before stood there in earnest confabulation with another man; the latter was tall and broad-shouldered, with an even tanned skin and black hair that threatened to curl at a moment's notice. He had an easy bearing of manner that could almost have been taken for insolence if it were not for the friendly grin.

Johnny poked him. "Mike—over there."

Mike stared at Diane. Unmindful of them, she was twirling her glass on the table. Mike looked again, then took a deep breath. His temples throbbed and life pulsated for him with a new meaning. Awestruck, he touched Johnny on the shoulder. "Sometimes I actually have faith in you again."

Johnny sighed. "There's a look in your eyes that careful mothers fear."

"Not at all." There was a curious note of suppressed excitement in his voice. "I'm going to prove I'm a friend with some good advice. You should go over and apologize," he said in prodding tones.

"You think so?" It'd make me look awfully weak—"

Johnny's face clouded with doubt but he put one foot forward uncertainly.

"Why, you're not a tactician," Mike declared. "It clears the deck for future action. Go ahead," he urged with a friendly little push.

"Maybe you're right," Johnny nodded gravely. He placed one hand on his stomach. "Bow from the hips, huh?"

"Sure. But don't look as though you had a gas pain—"

They had moved forward until now Johnny stood just before Diane. Mike a little behind him. Diane looked up.

Exactly as he had rehearsed it, Johnny bowed low. "Charming lady—after contemplating my rudeness—I've come to—"

He faltered as he raised his eyes to meet Diane's cold, uncompromising stare. Then he wiggled a little with embarrassed shifting from one foot to the other. And Mike was offering no assistance.

But as Diane watched him with a scornful curl to her lips, a sudden astounding Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde change came over Johnny. His face twisted into a savage snarl as if her icy disdain had been the last straw, and with a sound like the cry of a wolf he lunged forward to force her into his violent embrace.

E. E. ARTERBURN REPORTS DENVER REAL ESTATE

Denver, Colorado, September 14.—An encouraging and spectacular improvement in the Denver real estate market, with property changing hands at a rate reminiscent of pre-depression days, was reported at the weekly meeting Monday night of the brokerage division of the Denver real estate exchange.

The twenty-five members of the division, according to E. E. Arterburn, division president, reported that during the week they had closed sales of more than $100,000 worth of property.

The sales were the largest reported by the brokerage division for a single week in several years.

"It is particularly significant that more than $90,000 in cash was involved in the $100,000 worth of sales," Arterburn said.

"Most of the purchases are being made by investors who feel that real estate—particularly Denver real estate—offers the safest investment, as well as the best opportunity for profits."

The sales of the brokerage division last week were a sixth as great as the total sales reported from February 1 to September 1.

RUNAWAY WHEEL DOES DAMAGE IN HOME AND STORE

Wyatt, Mo.—A rather unique accident occurred here Friday morning when a large International truck owned by Boyce Implement Co., at Sikeston lost one of the tires on the right dual wheel as it entered Wyatt from the west. The wheel rolled with much force several yards, bounced into the bedroom of the E. F. Smith home, and completely demolished the bed; then bounced to the opposite wall with such force as to crush a 2x4 and jar Rafferty-Smith & Co. store on the other side. Considerable damage was done to canned goods, jars, and much other damage was caused by the broken glass. The only occupant of the building at the time was Mrs. E. F. Smith, who escaped uninjured, though badly frightened.—Cairo Citizen.

Butler County farmers were considerably agitated and appealed to the Sheriff to protect their lives and property from the 'wild cows' that wandered over the line from Arkansas and left a wake of destruction. The cows were shipped to Arkansas from North Dakota, due to drought conditions, and were so wild that they jumped fences, tore down buildings and made for human beings on sight. The wild cattle scare was ended when cowboys rounded up 2800 animals and corralled them in a 40,000-acre leased tract in Arkansas.

The first spring operation of the Byrd Antarctic expedition was the autogyro flight of William McCormick, who lofted to an altitude of 7200 feet and discovered that the Ross Sea, north of the entrance to the Bay of Whales, was free of ice. This may prove, scientists believe, that the Ross Sea remains open all winter.

SERVICES THURSDAY FOR MISS KATHERINE AUSTIN

Funeral services for Miss Katherine Austin, who died in the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau late Monday afternoon, were conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church here by the Rev. E. H. Orear. Burial was in the Sikeston city cemetery.

Miss Austin, who, until December, had spent all her life in Scott county, sustained a fractured hip in a fall four weeks ago. An infection which resulted from the broken hip and generally failing health caused her to sink slowly from the time she was taken to the hospital until her death Monday.

Miss Austin's body was removed from the hospital to a Cape Girardeau undertaking establishment, and at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, her body, followed by a long procession, was brought here for the services.

Active pallbearers at the funeral were W. E. Hollingsworth, Emil Steck, George Pearman, C. E. Felker, Frank Van Horne, and George Lough. Honorary pallbearers were George Buchanan, C. D. Matthews, Jr., G. B. Greer, Dr. L. O. Rodes, Walter E. Derris, and W. C. Bowman.

Miss Austin, who was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin, was born on a farm near Blodgett on July 18, 1877. For more than twenty years she lived in Sikeston in a home on the corner of North Ranney and Lake streets. In December she moved to Cape Girardeau to live with her sister, Mrs. Florence Marshall at the Idan-Ha hotel.

Besides Mrs. Marshall, she is survived by three half-brothers, Joe Marshall of Chicago, Cyrus Marshall of Crowder, and Reece Marshall of Jackson, Calif., and three step-brothers, James Marshall of Crowder, Sterling Marshall of Cape Girardeau, and I. H. Marshall of Blodgett. Officials of the Welsh Undertaking establishment of Sikeston and of the Nunnelee firm of Blodgett had charge of the services.

FARMERS TO DECIDE ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

Every corn-hog farmer in Scott county should, when the time comes, express his opinion in the referendum which will probably be used to decide whether an adjustment program will be carried out in 1935, says J. W. Burch, in charge of the corn-hog program in Missouri. Plans for holding the referendum are now being discussed with representatives of corn-hog production control associations, state corn-hog program administrators, and state agricultural extension service directors.

The nature of next year's program will depend very largely on what the corn-hog farmers say they want. Apparently the opinion in other states tends toward a feed crop reduction program, expecting to hold down hog numbers by preventing increased acreages of corn and other feed crops. It is likely though that many Missouri farmers will want to see hogs kept in the contract, since they feel that $10 hogs will increase numbers too rapidly particularly in those sections that have produced corn this year.

They are not so fearful of the consequences in 1935 as they are for 1936. If a bumper corn crop is produced next year, as happened in 1932 following the drought of 1931, with livestock numbers low, pork prices would be high, corn prices would tend to be relatively low, and there would be almost a certainty of another over-production of hogs.

In the corn-hog production control associations, farmers seem to have in their hands the means to hold their past gains. They seem to have a chance now to level off in the future the disastrous cycles of feed and livestock production which have injured them in the past.

Control of corn production in 1935 to allow for all needs but to prevent excessive expansion has been proposed as a method of keeping both feed grain and livestock prices at stable and profitable levels. Whether Missouri farmers want to undertake corn and hog adjustment next year to prevent immediate trouble and to serve as a forerunner for a longer-time program, is a question for them to answer.

MRS. HANDY L. SMITH'S CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of Mrs. Handy L. Smith, who is seriously afflicted with sleeping sickness, the first case of its kind in Sikeston, remains unchanged.

Mrs. Smith is isolated at her home at 132 Tanner Street and is being tended by Dr. H. M. Kennedy and by day and night nurses. She sleeps about twenty hours a day. The house is not quarantined since the disease is not highly contagious, but no visitors are allowed to see her.

Becoming ill at Washington, D. C., where she went last month with Mrs. Annie Winchester and Mrs. Maggie Lillard, both of Arlington, Ky., and two other companions, to visit Mrs. Lillard's son, Reese Lillard, who is connected with the radio division of the war department, Mrs. Smith started to drive home, but when she became more ill, she stopped for several days at the home of an aunt in Bloomington, Ohio. There her son, Lynn Smith, got her and drove her here about the first of September.

It is not known where she contracted sleeping sickness. Riley Brown of Charleston suffered with it some time ago, but subsequently recovered. Few cases have been reported in this district.

Beauty Writer Tells Older Woman How She Can Look 10 to 15 Years Younger

Mature women of 35 and older lose 50 per cent of their good looks possibilities because they are ignorant of eye make-up. Joan Preston, noted beauty authority, advises them to touch up their lashes, brows and eyelids with maybelline mascara, pencil and eye shadow. The photographs show a woman of 42 before and after applying eye cosmetics.

By JOAN PRESTON

SO much is being written these days about how our younger women may beautify themselves that one might think the older women from the middle thirties to the late fifties have ceased to exist. Well, they do exist! They are as great if not greater in number than the group the beauty writers usually write about, and so this article is for the older woman.

Mature women are no longer on the shelf, as they were in grandma's day! Realizing this, most women do their utmost to retain their youthful appearance. They have learned how to defeat "spare tires" and dowager humps by exercise, they are experts in wielding powder puff and lipstick and their clothes are smart and intriguing.

But there is one beauty art in which they are deplorably ignorant. They don't know how to make up their eyes. And as a result nearly every mature woman loses fifty per cent of her good looks possibilities! Her lashes are no longer the lustrous, curling fringe they were in her teens because she has neglected them and the years have taken their toll unimpeded. The lashes are sparse, dry and greyish looking, doing absolutely nothing to enhance the appearance of her eyes, as all good lashes are supposed to do.

Well, the first step is to get a box of maybelline mascara, and you can secure the tear-proof, non-smarting kind in brown, black and blue.

Just brush a light coating on your upper lashes—none on the lower ones, please. If you brush upward it will give your lashes a lovely upward tilt that makes your eyes look larger and younger. Before the mascara dries, go over the lashes with a clean brush to remove any lumps or beads and to separate the individual hairs. Then, blend a tiny bit of cream or inconspicuous color of eyeshadow lightly on the upper lid, and behold! you have removed fifteen years from your age!

In addition to this make-up, you must learn to care for your lashes daily to keep them soft and silky and to promote their growth. Every night on retiring, remove all mascara thoroughly and then apply a good cream lash grower generously at the base of the lashes. It will nourish them and at the same time soften the thin, delicate skin on the eyelids, which is apt to get dry and wrinkled looking after 35.

THE EDITOR SAYS—

The sudden death of Edmund P. Crowe at his home in Dexter Monday evening, came as a shock to us who called him a friend. The newspaper fraternity thru-out Southeast Missouri will greatly miss his editorials as they were generally seasoned with spice that left no unpleasant afterthought in the minds of those mentioned. Personally, we shall miss him greatly as he has signally honored The Standard editor with his darts of wit that never left a sting. Death came to him as he probably wished, suddenly, and without a long and suffering siege of sickness. Whatever be beyond the River of Death, we trust St. Peter will open wide the gates and admit Sir Edmund and in the books to be balanced find much to the credit of our friend that came from a big heart to offset any frailties that he might have had.

The American Federation of Labor officials have sent out letters to all Congressional nominees asking their stand on the 30-hour week and a number of other questions that may be good or bad. These questionnaires should be placed in the pigeon hole or waste basket, and advise the A. F. L. that when the time comes to pass on any measure that is presented to Congress, full and due consideration will be given same. This goes for members of the Legislature, too.

The Standard will refrain from any unseemly tactics during the campaign now beginning, but stand ready to heave as much ugly stuff as anyone if our Republican friends start anything. We shall vote the ticket straight and advise all Democrats to do likewise.

A man by the name of Bilbo was elected United States Senator from Mississippi Tuesday by a majority of some 5000. In his campaign he stated if he was elected he would out-huey Huey. The country can now prepare for the worst between Long and Bilbo.

Sikeston needs a number of fairly modern houses that can be rented for a reasonable sum. Right now seven families are forced to other towns for houses as not a single one can be found in Sikeston. Many houses now occupied by two families, roomers can hardly find a bed to sleep in. Wish some folks with money, or credit, would put up a few modern duplex buildings, while help is plentiful and building material reasonable.

In another column will be found the County Republican Ticket as filled to date. From Sikeston W. E. Hollingsworth, Republican, was selected to oppose C. E. Felker, Democrat, for Collector. George W. Kirk, Republican, against W. P. Wilkerson, Democrat, for Prosecuting Attorney. Roger A. Bailey, Republican, against C. C. White, Democrat, for Representative. Three mighty fine men have consented to be offered for the slaughter in order to fill out the Republican ticket.

The Supreme Court at Jefferson City ordered the four negroes sentenced at Caruthersville to one year in jail and $1000 fine, released on a habeas corpus, whatever that is. Anyway, these negroes will always remember Caruthersville and never go back there.

J. C. Ensor of Monroe City, Mo., called The Standard editor over the phone from a Sikeston filling station Wednesday afternoon. He never knew us but knew we were a brother of the Blantons in Monroe county that he did know. Sorry not to have met him personally.

The Standard editor enjoyed a visit the latter part of the week from J. M. Bennett and his son, M. H. Bennett, living near East Prairie. They report some mighty good corn in their neighborhood.

Thursday morning fourteen men were loafing on the corner near the Sterling Stores when a relief scout called on them to see if any of them wanted work. None of them did, though one man said if he wanted to work, he knew where he could find 40 acres of corn to cut. A local officer stated any number of men remained at home, in the house, or on the porch, in order not to be seen in case they were offered work, as they preferred to loaf and be fed from relief headquarters.

A Sikeston woman who has been receiving relief for a long time, recently wrote to the President telling him of the bunch of crooks in charge of relief at the Sikeston headquarters. The letter was forwarded to Mr. Oldham, in charge of this district, who called at the local headquarters for an investigation. Miss Audrey Chaney, John A. Young and Rev. E. H. Orear are the three crooks specially mentioned, which we all know is not so, and still they are trying to help the unfortunate and the ungrateful.

Bertha Rhodes, a mighty good colored cook, wishes a position in some Sikeston family. She can be found at the cabin on the C. C. Pinnell place.

Ed Crowe, Well Known Dexter Publisher Dies

Dexter, September 18.—Ed P. Crowe, editor and owner of the Dexter Statesman, died unexpectedly at his home last night at 8:30. Crowe was the victim of heart disease and fell into the arms of his wife as he arose from his chair in the sitting room of his home and started to the bathroom. He never regained consciousness after he was stricken and passed away within a few minutes after Dr. Frank LaRue had answered the hurried call.

Edmond Pendleton Crowe has been for nearly 25 years one of the outstanding as well as one of the most versatile newspaper men in the State. His humorous editorial quips, his penetrating understanding of human nature, his love of the common man and the zest and joy he got out of life, marked him among many.

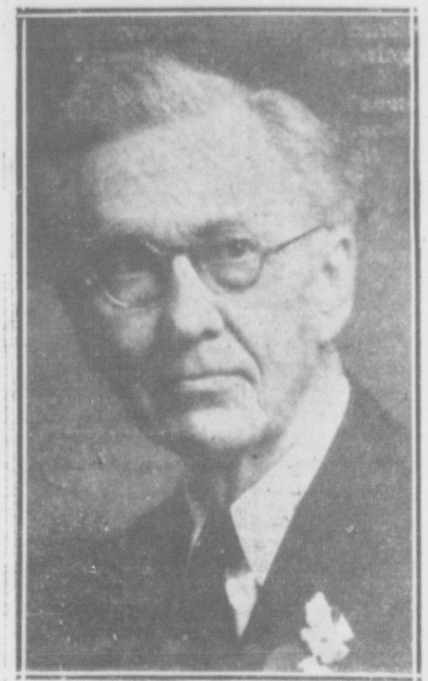

He was born at Hartford, Ky., July 21, 1868, and started his newspaper experience at the age of 18 as a reporter on an Eddyville, Ky., paper. From Eddyville he went to the Louisville Courier-Journal, where he worked as a reporter and feature writer under the guidance of the inimitable editor, Colonel Henry Waterson.

Endowed with a high sense of wit and humor and a gift of easy-flowing expression, it was natural that he drift onto the lecture platform. He was a favorite lecturer and anti-saloon lecturer for 15 years, covering 28 States of the Union from Kansas to the Atlantic coast.

In 1910 he decided to make Sikeston his home, but soon changed his mind, moved his family to Dexter and started the Dexter Statesman, which he has owned and edited since.

The call of the lecture platform was so strong in his blood that after he had taken on the duties of the operator of a weekly newspaper, he again answered the urge of the open forum and campaigned over some 30 counties of Missouri as a champion of local opinion in his opposition to licensure saloons.

In his early life he held the pastorate of a Methodist church in Louisville for five years and had been a communicant of that organization all his life. Of recent years he had given much of his time to his church obligations.

Crowe was a positive character. He was always for or against. At the masthead of his newspaper he carried this statement: "Always Stand True to the Common People". He was intensely human.

He could rise to the heights of the loftiest emotions and yet shared with the average man frailties that made him sympathetic. His common humanity was expressed in his attitude toward a little Spitz poodle that for years has been his most worshipful slave and which he called "Hell Roarin' Nick". The dog was his constant companion during his waking hours.

His wife and two sons survive, the latter being Henry of New York City and Hardin, manager of the Statesman. Other near relatives are the Rev. John M. Crowe of Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Charles R. Crowe and Mrs. Nathan Moore, both of Louisville, Ky.

Funeral services will be held at the Crowe home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in the Dexter cemetery.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

Hollingsworth to Run For County Collector

Additional candidates for Scott County offices on the Republican ticket were named Tuesday evening at a meeting of the County Republican Central Committee in Benton.

Among them are W. E. Hollingsworth of Sikeston, candidate for county collector, who will oppose C. E. Felker; Roger Bailey, also of Sikeston, for county representative in the State legislature, opposing C. C. White; Elmer Dannemuller, for county recorder, opposing H. F. Kirkpatrick; and Louis Dohogne, for associate judge of the county court from the second district, opposing Peter Gosche.

The following candidates were also chosen: August F. Roden-mayer for constable of Kelo township; W. G. Maddox for justice of the peace in Sylvania township; Charlie F. Henley for constable of Sylvania township; Syd Hampton for constable of Tywappity township, and Marion Murphy for justice of the peace in Morley township.

At a committee meeting in Benton Thursday, Judge C. J. H. Coy was selected as the Republican candidate for presiding judge of the county court, George W. Kirk as prosecuting attorney, and several other men as candidates for justices and constables.

The work of filling the Republican ticket will be continued at a session of the committee in Benton Tuesday evening.

Move Made Because of Great Demand for Loans

The transfer of the offices of the Sikeston Production Credit Association from the Derris building, where it had been located since its organization two months ago, to larger and more spacious quarters in the Stallcup building on the corner of New Madrid and Front streets, was made necessary, according to S. B. Hardwick, secretary-treasurer of the association, because of the increased demands for loans, and as well as an increase in the number of inquiries regarding loans.

The Sikeston Production Credit Association is a consolidation of the Benton, Charleston, and New Madrid Production Credit Associations, and serves the farmers in the counties of Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau. The capital stock of the Association is $170,000, and there is practically no limit to the amount that may be loaned.

These Production Credit Associations, of which there are fifteen or more in this state, are supervised by the Production Credit Corporation of St. Louis. This credit system which covers the United States, was made possible by an Act of Congress, of May, 1933, and provides for the creation of a permanent, cooperative production credit system for agricultural purposes, including the producing and harvesting of crops, breeding, raising and fattening of livestock, also dairy loans. The loans are made from three to twelve months, and at present bear 5 per cent, the interest being charged on a yearly rather than a flat basis.

E. P. Coleman, Jr., of the E. P. Coleman Cotton Company is president, and Fred Hetlage, of the McGee-Hetlage Mercantile Company, is vice-president, of the association.

TAYLOR-SHEPPARD

Friends of John J. Taylor and Willie Frances Sheppard, both of this city, will be surprised to learn of their recent wedding. Turning he followed them. Once more he drove over furrows and ditches, this time in corn nine feet high, watching the tracks left by the bandit car.

Not long afterward he came upon the car, empty except for loot, and abandoned by the fugitive. You stay here, he told Duggan, starting off to summon aid, firing in the air as he went to notify the natives. At a house nearby he called his headquarters here to ask the help of Captain A. D. Sheppard and Trooper O. L. Walish, who were sitting in the office. Then he talked to the natives, who were at first frightened and incredulous, thinking perhaps that he was drunk or wild, but who were later eager to search for the three fleeing men.

THIEF CAPTURED AT END OF UNUSUALLY VIGOROUS CHASE

Trooper Melvin Dace, who specializes in driving off what is commonly called the "beaten path", returned here Tuesday after one of the most unusual rides over recorded which ended in the capture of a jail-breaking bandit in a cow pea field following a chase which led through corn fields and over country roads.

At noon Tuesday, when Trooper Dace and Ney Duggan, a bus and truck inspector for the Missouri Public Service Commission, were riding south on Highway 61 near Caruthersville, they passed a car which had been pulled off the pavement and parked near a house. Suspicious of the automobile, a 1932 Chevrolet coach bearing an Oklahoma license, and of three men who were lounging in the back seat, he stopped his machine preparatory to questioning the men. But as he began to back up the highway, the three men, suddenly alert, started their car and immediately headed it, not onto the pavement, but toward a cornfield near the house. Then began a ride more exciting and unusual than a steepchase.

Trooper Dace backed his car further up the highway and turned into the road by the house and drove on into the cornfield. In the bottom lands the corn grew very thick, and although the fugitives gained a wide distance from their pursuers by their sudden, unexpected start, they were forced to plow down the corn and beat a path through the field. Over the two cars went, one breaking the corn and sending it high into the air, winding precariously among the stalks so that the officers could seldom see it, the other following close behind. Trooper Dace gripping his steering wheel, Duggan bouncing about with nothing to grasp, expecting always to strike a stump which would send the officer's car to destruction, thinking perhaps the fleeing men would stop around a bend to breathe and fire into the pursuing car as it approached. On they sped, going between forty and fifty miles an hour, leaping the furrows and an occasional deep ditch.

When the chase was finally ended and other officers inspected the fields and roads over which the cars were driven they could not tell how the ride was accomplished; no more could the two officers who played the principal parts in it.

At last the three men led the officers from the trampled cornfield onto the road to Micola, Mo., an exceedingly rural road filled with ruts and holes. Now the pursuing car was going seventy miles an hour down the rough road, the officers seeing almost nothing except great clouds of dust made by the bandit's machine, though sometimes noting the faces of astonished natives, standing on the roadside or trying to pass in their own cars.

Get a gun and break out the windshield, Trooper Dace told Duggan as he held the wheel and pressed the accelerator. And Duggan, still bouncing with nothing to grip, finally succeeded in turning around and reaching in the rear of the car and getting a gun. Not that one, Dace told him. Get the big one. And again the bus and truck inspector managed to turn and to find another gun.

Then as he prepared to shatter the windshield, Duggan was tossed about and his aim thrown awry so that the gun was either headed for the floor or the side window. At last he did strike the windshield, however, and broke it "all to hell", someone later said. But he could not see to shoot at the bandits and the great clouds of dust now swept into the patrol car as it continued its wild journey.

And then the dust was gone and the road clear ahead and Trooper Dace knew that the three men had again sought safety in a cornfield adjoining the road. Turning he followed them. Once more he drove over furrows and ditches, this time in corn nine feet high, watching the tracks left by the bandit car.

Not long afterward he came upon the car, empty except for loot, and abandoned by the fugitive. You stay here, he told Duggan, starting off to summon aid, firing in the air as he went to notify the natives. At a house nearby he called his headquarters here to ask the help of Captain A. D. Sheppard and Trooper O. L. Walish, who were sitting in the office. Then he talked to the natives, who were at first frightened and incredulous, thinking perhaps that he was drunk or wild, but who were later eager to search for the three fleeing men.

It was a gala day for the natives. Joyously they gathered to form a posse, bringing what guns they possessed since Trooper Dace had none to give them. One community father, mounting a high barn and sitting down with a shotgun flung across his legs, managed the activities of the hunters, who, walking abreast down the long field high with corn, could not see each other and so were forced to communicate with the barn sifter for directions.

Out of the cornfield and over a ditch and onward the men walked, augmented by Captain Sheppard and Trooper Wallis, who arrived soon after the posse was formed. The line progressed into a cow pea field, where the peas sometimes grew as high as three feet, the men walking slowly down the field in a strange wide procession.

Suddenly a native lad stumbled and was almost speechless. He had stepped on a man. Others, coming to help him, found Stephen W. Stone buried in the peas because he had wriggled in among them and under them until he was completely covered.

Stone was the only man captured, for after trailing the other two men to a thick dense marsh, the officers lost them and abandoned the search.

In the Chevrolet car, which had only one flat tire after the race, they found a strange assortment of loot, including six sawed-off shotguns and rifles, which were probably not used only because of lack of opportunity, hats, shirts, underwear, women's dresses, children's stockings, caps, overalls, jumpers, neckties, gloves, raincoats, mackinaws, a sack of meal, rulers, pencils, and hacksaws.

Most of these articles, they discovered, were stolen recently from the Stella Hardware Company at Stella, Newton County, Missouri.

In the car, as well, but not belonging to the same group, officers discovered a script warrant from Carter County, a fishing rod, dress shirts, and underwear, which were not immediately placed.

At Caruthersville, where Stone was taken Tuesday night to be placed in the Pemiscot County jail, officers learned that Stone, 28 years old, of Kenwood, Okla., who last month was being held in jail at Jay, Okla., on a charge of stealing a harness, and his two companions, Dewey Pankey of Caruthersville and Raymond Foster of numerous towns in Oklahoma, both in jail to face charges of highway robbery, had escaped from their cells on August 4.

Several days later, in Delaware County, Oklahoma, they kidnaped Earl Coggage, threatening him with guns and taking him for a ride before releasing him and driving on with his automobile. Not long afterward, on about September 12, the three men abandoned this car and stole a Ford pickup truck at Lowry's store on Brush creek in Oklahoma.

This information the officers obtained from Stone, who, in a statement, confessed his part in numerous thefts and robberies. But where the Chevrolet was found was not immediately learned. Neither was there a sudden decision regarding the disposition of Stone.

Oklahoma will want him for his original charge, for breaking jail, for holdup, and for stealing an automobile; the federal government may want him for possessing an unregistered gun, for kidnapping and for violation of the Dyer act, for which one of his companions, Pankey, is believed to have served a term already; and Missouri may want him in Carter and Newton counties for questioning about burglaries and in Pemiscot for possessing stolen property.

Supreme Court Orders Four Negroes Released

Jefferson City, September 18.—On the ground that they were not given a legal trial, the State Supreme Court late yesterday ordered the release of four St. Louis negroes held in the Pemiscot county jail at Caruthersville because of their activities as organizers for a negro society.

Ella Brown, Sam Sawyer, Robert Thomas and Dave Johnson, who had gone to Steele, Pemiscot county, to organize a local chapter of the "Pacific Movement of the Eastern World", were released on writs of habeas corpus. They were confined under sentences of one year's imprisonment and $1000 fines.

Attorneys for the four negroes contended they were not charged with violating any State or federal laws and were not given a fair trial last Tuesday. Before a justice of the peace pronounced sentence, the four were beaten by a courtroom crowd.

Invocation, Mrs. D. I. L. Seabough of Jackson.

Vocal solo, Mrs. C. L. Keaton of Cairo, accompanied by Mrs. N. H. Halliday, also of Cairo.

Greetings, Mrs. DeWitt C. Chastain of Butler, president of the state federated clubs.

Introduction of board members.

Vocal solo, Mrs. E. H. Orear, accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Grigsby of Charleston.

The evening program will be opened by an organ, violin, and piano selection given by Mrs. H. J. Welsh, Mrs. Frank Van Horn, and Mrs. Harvey Johnson. An invocation by the Rev. E. H. Orear will be followed by songs by Mrs. C. L. Keaton, accompanied by Mrs. N. H. Halliday and by official greetings by Dr. G. W. Presnell.

After a response by Mrs. James A. Finch of Cape Girardeau, Frederic Claiborne, accompanied by Miss Clara Drew Miller of Cape Girardeau, will play a violin solo. Mrs. Chastain will then deliver an address and Mrs. E. H. Orear, accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Grigsby, will sing.

An address by Charles H. Compton of St. Louis, president of the American Library Association and assistant librarian of the St. Louis public library, will end the program.

On Wednesday business sessions will be held and selections, including several numbers by Mrs. J. C. Henderson of Cape Girardeau, for the programs, which are being arranged by Poplar Bluff club women, will be presented. Before the end of the convention, at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, a meeting place for 1935 will be chosen.

Delegates from throughout the district, which extends north to St. Louis county, south to the Missouri-Arkansas line, and west half-way across the state, are expected to come here for the sessions.

KENDALLS TAKE CHARGE OF CITIES SERVICE STATION

O. E. (Pete) Kendall and his brother, Porter (Doc) Kendall assumed charge of the Cities Service Filling Station at the corner of Center street and North Kings-highway Tuesday after buying the station from Earl Johnson, who left the business to devote his time to his new duties as official buyer in Scott County under the corn fodder purchasing program. The Kendalls, who are well-known and well-liked here, will offer complete service station facilities, including the greasing, washing, and polishing of cars and the sale of Cities Service gasoline and oils, and tires and all accessories.

Programs for District Club Sessions Arranged

Plans for the entertainment of the seventy delegates who are expected to come here Tuesday afternoon, October 2, for an annual meeting of the ninth district of federated clubs, have been virtually completed.

Mrs. C. C. White, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. E. H. Orear and Mrs. H. E. Reuber, committee members, have already arranged programs for a luncheon, a banquet, and an evening session on October 2. The rest of the entertainment is being planned by club women of Poplar Bluff, under the direction of Mrs. Nelle Smith, district president.

Members of the state board of the federated clubs will arrive here on Monday afternoon, October 1, Mrs. White said. In the evening they will go to Morley, where they will be dinner guests of Mrs. Frank Emerson, state chairman of legislation. At the conclusion of a business meeting in Morley that night, they will return to Sikeston.

On the following morning, October 2, they will be in session at the Methodist Episcopal church here, where all convention meetings will be held. At a luncheon given for them Tuesday noon, Mrs. Nelle Smith will act as toastmistress.

Persons who will appear on the luncheon program are Mrs. J. N. Ross, who will give an invocation; Mrs. Harvey Johnson, who will play a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. H. J. Welsh; Mrs. O. F. Sitzes, of Sikeston, formerly of Charleston, who will present a whistling solo, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Lee; Mrs. Harvey Johnson and Daniel Malone, who will play a musical duet, "The Two Guitars: A Folk Song," an arrangement by Coburn; and Mrs. R. A. Moore, a piano solo.

Between the selections on the program the district chairmen, numbering about twenty-five, will be introduced.

On that same afternoon delegates to the convention will arrive here and will register at the Methodist Episcopal church from until 4 o'clock. During that time an art and antique display will be open to them in the Sunday school room of the church, where members of the Jackson women's clubs dressed in old-fashioned clothing, will present a skit. Mrs. White will be happy if persons who have specimens and are willing to lend them for the exhibit will notify her.

The program which has been arranged for a banquet to be held at the church at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, October 2, is printed below.

Toastmistress, Mrs. Arch Russell.

Invocation, Mrs. D. I. L. Seabough of Jackson.

Vocal solo, Mrs. C. L. Keaton of Cairo, accompanied by Mrs. N. H. Halliday, also of Cairo.

Greetings, Mrs. DeWitt C. Chastain of Butler, president of the state federated clubs.

DEMPESTER AMBULANCE BE KEPT AT SENSENBAUGH'S

Beginning this week, the headquarters for the Dempster ambulance were changed to Sensenbaugh's Super-Service Station at the corner of Kingshighway and Malone Avenue and a twenty-four hour service for ambulance calls was inaugurated.

A modern first aid kit has been added to the Dempster ambulance for the benefit of the injured, and calls may be made either at Dempsters or Sensenbaugh's.

The increasing demand for ambulance service made this necessary, and immediate service is now available.

What Price Strikes? Billions Annually, Statistics Reveal

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Over thirteen million man-days of work were lost during 1933 as a result of labor disturbances in the United States, according to figures compiled by the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. These figures showed 1,365 disputes adding to the Nation's economic loss as a result of the wave of strikes which began last May coincident with consideration by Congress of the National Industrial Recovery Act. No complications have been completed on the recent epidemic of strikes which President Roosevelt and General Hugh S. Johnson have sought to end by creating labor relations boards under each code authority to take Uncle Tom Fortner was in town Saturday and wishing that he could have a week of clear weather for hay making. He has a field of lespedeza that he wants to cut because his early hay crop was short. Asked if he ever ran out of hay, he said no, but that he "got so far back in the barn last winter that he had to feed for a little while on hay that he and the boys put in there in 1905." The hay he said, is a mixture of clover, timothy and red-top. Uncle Tom said that when he got to feeding on it last spring, he found it as fresh and sweet as it was when it was put in. He estimates that he has about two tons left of his 1905 crop.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

COLLEGE PAYS, ACCORDING TO STATISTICS COMPILED

Figures recently compiled by one of the leading insurance companies of the country in answer to the question "Does College Pay?" show that the average high school graduate goes to work when he is eighteen years old, reaches his maximum earning power of $2800 a year when he is fifty years old and during his entire life he will earn approximately $88,000. The college graduate does not go to work until he is 22 and reaches the maximum of $8500 per year at the age of sixty. His total life earnings will be $180,000 or $92,000 more than the high school graduate—$23,000 for each of the four years spent in college.

George Irving, veteran character actor, formerly known as "the American father", because of the many parental roles he played on the screen, has appeared for the past year only as a lawyer, judge or doctor. He keeps his "professional" record unbroken by being a physician in "Pursued", a new Fox film featuring Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory, Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie, which comes to the Malone Theatre, Saturday.

New York business men literally swarmed into the City Hall in protest against Mayor La Guardia's proposed one-half of 1 per cent gross receipts tax. The Board of Aldermen agreed to delay passage. Grover Whalen speaking for the opponents of the levy told the Aldermen that "if you had set out to devise a law to drive business out of New York, you could not have done better".

Vivian Hunter, former Ziegfeld beauty, who quit the stage to become the confidential secretary of Gunnar Axel Larson millionaire cement manufacturer of New York, has sued him for $1,000,000 because she lost her job. She claims she had a contract for life that was to pay her $200 a week. In addition, she claims Larson socked her on the jaw while they were in Europe, and she thinks the smack alone was worth $600,000.

Rosemary Ames has been signed to a new contract for another year by Fox Film. The award followed completion of "Pursued", in which she is featured with Victor Jory, Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie, and which comes to the Malone Theatre, Saturday.

Volatility

is the most important quality in gasoline
... say Authorities

WHAT does it take to make a gasoline "great"? Four oil experts tell you in their statements at the right.

They emphasize volatility . . . and Phillips 66 is famous for high volatility. Besides, this volatility is scientifically controlled, month by month, to make this greater gasoline a star all-weather performer.

Your engine always runs better, because the gas you get at a Phillips pump is correctly "tailored" for the particular weather you are having. You actually feel the difference in your motor . . . in increased speed and power . . . peppier pick-up . . . reduced noise and no-knock . . . plus extra mileage in every gallon.

We invite you to try a tankful, to see for yourself the outstanding improvement given by extra volatility, at no extra cost, at any Orange and Black 66 shield.

"During the past six years' exhaustive study . . . much has been found out about what is required of good gasoline. Of these requirements, the most obvious is volatility."

"Outstanding in the characteristics of improved motor fuel . . . for superior performance . . . is volatility."

The Public Utility Companies Of Missouri Are Lightening Your Tax Burden!

The Public Utility Companies of Missouri are its largest tax payers. They contribute more than $8,000,000 annually toward Federal, state, county, school and municipal taxes.

MORE THAN $100,000,000 WORTH OF CITY OWNED PROPERTY TAX EXEMPT

Municipal plants own over 100 million dollars worth of property that is tax exempt. That revenue is lost to the state coffers and must be made up by the other tax payers of the state.

Contrast this liberal donation to the tax funds of the state with the fact that municipally owned utilities are exempt from taxes on over $100,000,000 worth of property.

You, as a tax payer, have to make up your share of these missing taxes. It means extra dollars every year you must pay and from which you derive no benefit.

There is no sound economic reason for the existence of municipal plants.

The citizens of municipal towns pay an average of 12% more for service—and supply the capital for building the co-operative plants without return of principal or interest.

Why let anyone advocate such an outworn institution without registering your protest as a citizen and tax payer?

Paul Block owner of a string of newspapers in the East, returned to New York from an European tour. He told reporters: "Hitler is an insane Messiah. I don't expect war unless he falls and starts a war to keep the people's support. I am glad the Statue of Liberty has not been torn down by the New Dealers. England is the only prosperous country in Europe."

Two Paraguayan soldiers captured 1500 Bolivian soldiers and brought them into camp. The Paraguayans had been captured two weeks ago in El Gran Chaco and were being taken to the Bolivian base. The party became lost. After suffering from thirst and hunger for several days, the Bolivians agreed to lay down their arms and surrender to their two prisoners if the latter would lead them out of the jungle.

Two Federal agents and a city patrolman raided Frank Dueker's shoe shop on Good Hope street and seized 17 quarts of untaxed whiskey and arrested Dueker. Tuesday he gave bond for $1000 for his appearance for hearing before U. S. Commissioner John A. Ferguson on September 28. It is reported Dueker has been operating several years without molestation.—Cape News.

Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, arrived in Hollywood to make a motion picture. His first request was for a leading woman who can "make love like Mae West, has a figure like Claudette Colbert, can sing like Grace Moore and can keep still like Garbo."

Recipes for the Fishing Season

NOW THAT the season is open, the wife of a fisherman must stand ready at a moment's notice to accept with pleasure any or all of the offerings of his rod. Sometimes it means well ordered plans must be laid aside, but the wise wife of a seasoned sportsman knows how to rise to the occasion. She can dress and cook any fish in an experienced manner that will add comfortable afterglow to the sport. And well she knows the importance of preparing her fish in a sauce that will coax out all the bland delicate overtones of fish flavor. Her problem is simple next to that of the seventeenth century housewife who must have struggled with a sauce made by this recipe:

"Take a little boiling Fish Liquor and a little White Wine, a Sprig, more or less, of large Mace, Limon-Peel, Shetol, Anchovies, and a Clove or two, and boil them together. Then put in your Butter, and let it just boil up very quick; and having placed Sippets on your Dish and your Fish on the Sippets, Pour on your Sawce, garnish with Prawns, stewed Oysters, and Horse Radish."

But the more fortunate modern housewife merely blends subtle excellent sauces from the prepared condiments on her pantry shelf. The following suggestions for preparing fish will enhance any catch.

Baked Fish with Tartar Sauce—

Wash and dry trout or other fish carefully. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge lightly with flour. Place 6 strips bacon over the top and surround with about ½ cupful water. Bake frequently using 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour. The fish may be cut into individual servings or baked in one large piece. Serve with Tartar Sauce made by mixing ¾ cup Sandwich Spread with ¼ cup Mayonnaise.

Baked Fish with Mustard Sauce

—Cut 1½ lbs. fillet of haddock or other fish into 6 servings and season lightly with salt and pepper. Lay in shallow, well greased baking pan. Make a sauce as follows: Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and blend well. Add 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon Prepared Brown Mustard, and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened (about 3 minutes). Pour over the fish. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter to ½ cup dried bread crumbs and sprinkle over fish. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) for about 20 minutes.

Baked Stuffed White Fish or Haddock—

Wash 1 medium size fish carefully, dry, sprinkle with salt and pepper, stuff, sew up with twine and put in a pan, dredge lightly with flour and place 6 strips bacon over the top. Add enough water to keep from scorching (about ½ cup). Bake frequently, using 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour. Serve with Tomato Sauce made by adding a small amount of flour to 1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup. Cook until thickened. Fish Stuffing—Combine 2 cups dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, pepper to taste, few drops onion juice and 1 tablespoon chopped Preserved Sweet Midget Gherkins, and mix thoroughly. This makes a dry crumbly stuffing.

Fish with Tomato Sauce—Cut 2 lbs. fish into individual servings. Spread a thin layer of Prepared Brown Mustard over fish and allow to stand for 10 minutes. Dip in 1 beaten egg and then into dry bread crumbs. Fry in butter to a golden brown and serve with Tomato Sauce.

Tomato Sauce—Melt 2 table- spoons butter in a saucepan, add 2 tablespoons flour and stir until well blended. Add ½ teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, ¼ teaspoon onion juice and 1 cup milk, and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from fire, and add ¼ cup Tomato Ketchup.

One of the greatest movements of gold in the world's history was carried out without incident when metal ingots variously estimated as worth from 11,500,000,000 to $2,250,000,000 were transported from the San Francisco Mint to the Denver Mint. The last of such shipments started several weeks ago. The transfer was made to avoid "earthquake hazard", the Treasury announced.

"Etable Tree", one of the oldest living things in the world and the pride of the Mariposa Grove in Yosemite National Park, crashed to earth. Its age was estimated at 4000 years. A redwood, it was 266 feet tall; its girth at the base was 92 feet. It was so named because army cavalry in other days quartered its horses in the enormous hollow at the base of the tree.

Dorothy Thompson, American writer and wife of Novelist Sinclair Lewis, expelled from Germany by Nazi order, told friends in Paris: "Chancellor Hitler is no longer a man; he is a religion. Germany is a charming country, but it is becoming the most comfortable and most hygienic prison in the world". She assumes that the reason for her expulsion was an article written three years ago, in which she criticised the Nazi movement.

Something different in an agrarian problem when hundreds of farmers paraded through the fertile Salt River Valley, near Phoenix, Ariz., displaying banners which warned Japanese and Hindus to vacate their lands peacefully. American farmers insist that aliens must get out.

Tom Scott, late candidate for County Collector of Scott County, was in Southeast Missouri a few days ago and wanted his friends to know that there is no sore spots about his defeat for the nomination, that he is a Democrat, that he shall be home for the election vote for, and do what he can to elect Felker, and expects his friends to do the same. That sounds just like Tom Scott.

Princess Keola, the White Princess, and her two assistants, the Bennett Sisters, on Midway of West Bros. Carnival under the tent show title of Ferrerli Paradise Girls, are giving the town boys the biggest ten and twenty-five cent worth of any of the shows that have been here in a long, long time. What do you say, W. O.?

Two new trucks have been purchased by the Board of Public Works for the use of the four men directly under their supervision. Have no comment to make about the matter, just telling the folks.

RELATES CONFLICTING TALES AT STROUP TRIAL

Repudiating a fantastic story which he told earlier in the day during the trial of Ivan Boz Stroup of Cape Girardeau, who is charged with complicity in the robbery and murder of Frank Roseme at Rockview in Scott County last December and whose case was opened in the Cape Girardeau circuit court in Jackson Tuesday, Robert McKerley, now serving a life term in the Missouri penitentiary for the hammer slaying of a Chaffee taxi cab driver, stated late Wednesday afternoon that he did not know who killed Roseme.

On Wednesday morning, McKerley, who was taken to Jackson Sunday to be a State witness in the trial, absolved Stroup by declaring that he and another man, whose name was not publicly disclosed, had planned to rob Roseme, and that he had stood on the merchant's store porch while his companion went in and obtained money and presumably killed Roseme. Again in the afternoon he repeated his story, even telling numerous details about the robbery, including the amount of money which he received for his share.

Spectators, jurors, and attorneys were surprised then when after leaving the courtroom with Chief Deputy Warden Tom Scott for a ride back to Jefferson City, McKerley decided to return and tell the "honest truth."

After declaring he does not know Roseme's slayer, McKerley added that he was willing to attend the trial and to testify because he had been threatened by another prisoner at the penitentiary, Clifton Erwin.

He denied that he had been offered $1000 to absolve Stroup, but said he had received a note in the prison stating that his "life would be short" if he did not testify in favor of Stroup. At the conclusion of the hearing, officers attempted to learn if the Erwin mentioned by McKerley were not Hardin Erwin, who was given a twenty-year prison term last February in Charleston for holdup, McKerley, accompanied by Scott, returned to Jefferson City.

The man at first named by McKerley was taken to Jackson on Wednesday for questioning. His denial of complicity in the murder was at least partially substantiated by work records. He was not held after the repudiation.

Meanwhile, the trial proceeded with the testimony of various witnesses, including Fred Heeb, a resident of Kelso, H. J. Welsh, coroner of Scott county, John Hobbs, Chaffee marshal, R. E. Stewart, special agent for the Frisco railroad, and Sheriff Joe Anderson.

Stroup is the third person to be tried for the murder of Roseme. Otto Menz, convicted this summer, is now serving a fifteen-year sentence for complicity in the slaying. His wife, Mrs. Edith Menz, is now waiting for a new hearing, following the inability of jurors to reach a decision at her first trial, which lasted for ten days.

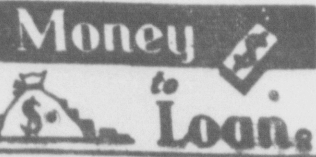

WHEN CARGEARS "CHANNEL" BEWARE

When car gears can cut a channel through your gear lubricant it should mean two things to you—DANGER, for one—WRONG LUBRICANT for another.

For winter driving your gear lubricant must flow evenly around the gears even under the coldest winter driving conditions. Vitality important because the colder it gets the more brittle steel becomes.

Alemite Winter Gear Lubricant positively will not solidify or even get stiff under the coldest driving temperatures. THIS ALSO INSURES FINGER-TIP EASY GEAR SHIFTING.

This lubricant eliminates the estimated 90% of axle and transmission breakdowns with consequent costly replacements, traceable to poor quality gear lubricant.

LOST—$10 bill, in vicinity of shoe factory. Liberal reward.—Buford Jones. Notify Peoples Market. 11-102pd.

FOR RENT—3-room unfurnished apt., water, phone, garage. Phone, 660. 11-102.

FOR RENT—2 garages. Phone 516. 11-100.

WANTED—Steady work. Experienced in farming and handling stock. Age 28, two in family.—Carl B. Gugat, Bertrand, Mo. 11-102.

FOR RENT—Furnished rooms. 625 Prosperity. 11-99.

FOR RENT—Attractive modern apartment for couple.—Mrs. J. H. Tyler, phone 404. 11-102.

FOR RENT—Modern bedroom. Phone 151. 21-101.

FOR RENT—Rooms to adults, light housekeeping privileges. Phone 58. 11-102.

FOR SALE—Winter barley, rye and wheat for seed.—John Dume, RFD 1, Sikeston. 21-101 pd.

You will find Alemite Winter Gear Lubricant all PURE LUBRICANT. No tar-like, sticky, non-lubricating "filler". Absolutely safe gear protection no matter how high the speed or heavy the winter service asked of it.

There is no acid of acid residue in this lubricant. It is also so thoroughly fluid at all times that it flows through the small spaces in the transmission of the new cars which depend upon lubricant from the transmission to lubricate other units.

INSTANT STARTING INSURED! No drag on batteries in starting. "MOST ECONOMICAL WINTER GEAR LUBRICANT" because it saves and prevents the wear which causes big repair bills.

SPECIAL GRADES—WITH EXTRA MARGINS OF SAFETY for all makes and models of cars, all built to meet the most rigid specifications of all car manufacturers.

ST. LOUIS CONTRACTOR TO BE HERE SATURDAY

Ed H. A. Volkmann, president of the Victor Architectural and Building Co. of St. Louis, who wrote here recently about a proposed building program to eliminate the present shortage of living quarters in Sikeston, will be here Saturday to discuss tentative building plans with interest civic leaders. The session will be held in the offices of the Missouri Utilities Company on Center street at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

In a letter to John G. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, which was received yesterday, Mr. Volkmann said, "Primarily it would be necessary to familiarize myself by personal survey prerequisite to the preliminary considerations."

It would seem, tentatively speaking, that some workable plan can be devised to meet the exigency in a practical way, which may require some reasonable time and preparation on my part before the same can be submitted for proper consideration. It would be essential for me to get some preliminaries as to possible availability of suitable site, ground values, rental standards, sanitation and whatever facilities now exist, also materials and supplies available locally or nearby. At this time I would be able to give intensive service in promoting such an activity to benefit your city and I am pleased to have your proffered organization co-operation towards a helpful solution."

The need for houses, apartments, or duplexes here is well-known. Numerous persons are now living inconveniently in inadequate and uncomfortable quarters because they have no choice. A few have even left Sikeston for other towns since they could not find places to live in here; and seven families connected with the district administrative office of the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission, ordered to move here from Poplar Bluff and establish headquarters, are now attempting to transfer their offices to Cape Girardeau because they have been unable to find either apartments or houses in Sikeston.

STATE TO HAVE NATIONAL PARK NEAR OZARKS LAKE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 18.—Establishment of Missouri's first national park, in the Lake of the Ozarks region, has been approved as part of the FERA program for retirement of marginal land. R. W. Selvidge, chairman of the State Planning Board and professor of industrial education at the University of Missouri, announced yesterday.

The park, to be on the south side of the lake, in Miller county, will cover approximately 10,000 acres, Dr. Selvidge said. Under present plans, it will extend along both sides of what is known as the Glaze arm of the lake. It will run south from a point where highway 54 crosses Zebra Bridge. The FERA already has begun to acquire options on the land, Dr. Selvidge said. Three Civilian Conservation Corps camps of several hundred members are to be set up to do the preliminary work. The area must be cleared of underbrush; a network of roads built, and shelter houses constructed.

The project, Dr. Selvidge explained, is one of ten new national parks which the Department of Agriculture intends to develop as soon as part of its program for planned land use. In the past, he pointed out, national parks have been chosen under a policy which aimed at preservation of "features of national significance," while the new policy is "perhaps more recreational than scenic."

The new park, Dr. Selvidge said, should not be confused with the separate proposal of the Planning Board for a 250,000-acre forest preserve and wild life sanctuary encircling the entire lake. The larger project, it is understood, has reached an impasse over failure of the Federal Government and executives of the Union Electric Co., which developed the Lake of the Ozarks as a power source, to agree on a suitable price for land held by the Union Electric. The company, one informant said, is loath to cut its price.

Department of Interior officials and the National Wild Life Preservation Commission, it is said, regard the tract as one of the best natural layouts in the United States for a development of the type proposed.

Dr. Selvidge said he was hopeful of FERA approval for the purchase of land to establish a system of road side parks along Missouri highways, which would vary in size from 40 to 700 acres. One would be located at Mineola and another just north of Marshall Junction.—Post Dispatch.

Pert Kelton, featured with Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory and Russell Hardie in "Pursued", new Fox Film drama of Borneo, owns a half interest in a swank Hollywood hotel and lives in a penthouse atop it. "Pursued" will be the attraction at the Malone Theatre, Saturday.

He has a minor role in "Pursued", new Fox Film drama of British North Borneo, which comes to the Malone Theatre, Saturday, with Rosemary Ames, Victor Jory, Pert Kelton and Russell Hardie in the principal roles.

THE Camirror

NEW FRANKLINIANA — Almost unnoticed for a century and a half, this statue of Benjamin Franklin dating back to his sojourn at the court of Louis XVI, has been discovered. A. Atwater Kent presented it to the Franklin Institute in Phila. Here it is with the original Franklin printing press, in the Graphic Arts section of the Institute.

VETERAN BARTENDER Addresses Ambitious Rookies — Hans Newmann, "mixer" at the McAlpin Bar, N. Y., advises men preparing for "bar examinations": "NEVER stir a highball with a spoon! It destroys the ZIP which is the soul of any carbonated drink. Use self-stirring Billy Baxter Club Soda. Its EXTRA bubbles do all the necessary mixing."

CLEAN SWEEP — These shapely damsels showed excellent form — And forms — in a broom sweeping contest for college girl vacationists held at a southern beach recently.

MAN AND MOTOR Conquer Mountain — Driver Al Miller credits Bohn Aluminum cylinder head of Hudson coupe for all-time record climb of Mt. Washington in 13 minutes and 20 seconds. "Aluminum head increased compression and power without knocking," Miller said, his equipped stock car breaking even racing car record.

REAL FREAK—This calf photographed at Brentwood, England, has five legs, six feet and a tail that is slightly curled. It is in perfect health.

HOTEL GOTHAM IN NEW YORK has first air transport bulletin board—permanent airplane schedules are displayed on the board, erected in the hotel lobby as celebrities of the aviation world cheered. General Kincaid (left) President, American Hotels Corporation, originated the idea and will place a board in each hotel. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace hails this progressive step in aviation.

ANOTHER TIME WHEN Good light WOULD HELP

As age increases, the pupil of the eye contracts and less light enters. That's why scientists say that people over fifty need two or three times as much light as people twenty years old. And such a task as sewing, regardless of age, requires several times as much light as reading.

Proper home lighting benefits the vision and health of every member of the family. It's so easy and inexpensive to have! Ask today for a free lighting survey.

THESE ARE SOME IMPORTANT LIGHTING RULES

1. Use lamp bulbs of the correct wattage...at least 40-watt MAZDA lamps for 3 socket lamps, 60-watt for 2 socket lamps, 100-watt for single socket lamps.
2. Have all lamp bulbs shaded. For portables, a shade light in color, wide in spread, and open at the top.
3. Never read in a glaring light, or in your own shadow.
4. Always use lamp bulbs of reputable make. Inferior ones burn out and blacken quickly.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR L. Y. NELSON MONDAY

Funeral services were held Monday morning, 10 o'clock, at the home of Walter Nelson north of this city, for his father, Lytle Yancy Nelson, aged pioneer of near this place, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Dora Leslie of Carbondale, Ill., Saturday, September 15, at the advanced age of 85 years, 8 months and 11 days.
Rev. C. F. Transue, pastor of the Sikeston Nazarene church, officiated with interment in the Big Opening Community Cemetery.

In 1916 he was left to follow the walks of life alone when his wife answered death's summons. Mr. Nelson was a member of the Methodist church, having been converted at the age of 28 years.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Lucy Ruffin of Kewanee, Mrs. Dora Leslie of Carbondale, Ill., and Mrs. Florence York of St. Louis; four sons, Walter Nelson of Sikeston, R. C. Nelson of Oil City, La., Leonard Nelson of near Matthews, and Wallace Nelson of Noxall, 34 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

SERVICES THURSDAY FOR MISS KATHERINE AUSTIN

Funeral services for Miss Katherine Austin, who died in the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau late Monday afternoon, were conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church here by the Rev. E. H. Greer. Burial was in the Sikeston city cemetery.

Miss Austin, who, until December, had spent all her life in Scott county, sustained a fractured hip in a fall four weeks ago. An infection which resulted from the broken hip and generally failing health caused her to sink slowly from the time she was taken to the hospital until her death Monday.

Miss Austin's body was removed from the hospital to a Cape Girardeau undertaking establishment, and at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, her body, followed by a long procession, was brought here for the services.

Active pallbearers at the funeral were W. E. Hollingsworth, Emil Steck, George Pearman, C. E. Felker, Frank Van Horne, and George Lough. Honorary pallbearers were George Buchanan, C. D. Matthews, Jr., G. B. Greer, Dr. L. O. Rodes, Walter E. Derris,

and W. C. Bowman.

Miss Austin, who was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin, was born on a farm near Blodgett on July 18, 1877. For more than twenty years she lived in Sikeston in a home on the corner of North Ranney and Lake streets. In December she moved to Cape Girardeau to live with her sister, Mrs. Florence Marshall at the Idan-Ha hotel.

Besides Mrs. Marshall, she is survived by three half-brothers, Joe Marshall of Chicago, Cyrus Marshall of Crowder, and Reece Marshall of Jackson, Calif.; and three step-brothers, James Marshall of Crowder, Sterling Marshall of Cape Girardeau, and I. H. Marshall of Blodgett.

Officials of the Welsh Undertaking establishment of Sikeston and of the Nunnelee firm of Blodgett had charge of the services.

FARMERS TO DECIDE ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

Every corn-hog farmer in Scott county should, when the time comes, express his opinion in the referendum which will probably be used to decide whether an adjustment program will be carried out in 1935, says J. W. Burch, in charge of the corn-hog program in Missouri. Plans for holding the referendum are now being discussed with representatives of corn-hog production control associations, state corn-hog program administrators, and state agricultural extension service directors.

The nature of next year's program will depend very largely on what the corn-hog farmers say they want. Apparently the opinion in other states tends toward a feed crop reduction program, expecting to hold down hog numbers by preventing increased acreages of corn and other feed crops. It is likely though that many Missouri farmers will want to see hogs kept in the contract, since they feel that $10 hogs will increase numbers too rapidly, particularly in those sections that have produced corn this year.

They are not so fearful of the consequences in 1935 as they are for 1936. If a bumper corn crop is produced next year, as happened in 1932 following the drought of 1931, with livestock numbers low, pork prices would be high, corn prices would tend to be relatively low, and there would be almost a certainty of another over-production of hogs.

In the corn-hog production control associations, farmers seem to have in their hands the means to hold their past gains. They seem to have a chance now to level off in the future the disastrous cycles of feed and livestock production which have injured them in the past.

Control of corn production in 1935 to allow for all needs but to prevent excessive expansion has been proposed as a method of keeping both feed grain and livestock prices at stable and profitable levels. Whether Missouri farmers want to undertake corn and hog adjustment next year to prevent immediate trouble and to serve as a forerunner for a longer-time program, is a question for them to answer.

MRS. HANDY L. SMITH'S CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of Mrs. Handy L. Smith, who is seriously afflicted with sleeping sickness, the first case of its kind in Sikeston, remains unchanged.

Mrs. Smith is isolated at her home at 132 Tanner Street and is being tended by Dr. H. M. Kenig and by day and night nurses. She sleeps about twenty hours a day. The house is not quarantined since the disease is not highly contagious, but no visitors are allowed to see her.

Becoming ill at Washington, D. C., where she went last month with Mrs. Annie Winchester and Mrs. Maggie Lillard, both of Arlington, Ky., and two other companions, to visit Mrs. Lillard's son, Reese Lillard, who is connected with the radio division of the war department, Mrs. Smith started to drive home, but when she became more ill, she stopped for several days at the home of an aunt in Bloomington, Ohio. There her son, Lynn Smith, got her and drove her here about the first of September.

It is not known where she contracted sleeping sickness. Riley Brown of Charleston suffered with it some time ago, but subsequently recovered. Few cases have been reported in this district.

Beauty Writer Tells Older Woman How She Can Look 10 to 15 Years Younger

Mature women of 35 and older lose 50 per cent of their good looks possibilities because they are ignorant of eye make-up. Joan Preston, noted beauty authority, advises them to touch up their lashes, brows and eyelids with maybelline mascara, pencil and eye shadow. The photographs show a woman of 42 before and after applying eye cosmetics.

By JOAN PRESTON

SO much is being written these days about how our younger women may beautify themselves that one might think the older women from the middle thirties to the late fifties have ceased to exist. Well, they do exist! They are as great if not greater in number than the group the beauty writers usually write about, and so this article is for the older woman.

Mature women are no longer on the shelf, as they were in grandma's day! Realizing this, most women do their utmost to retain their youthful appearance. They have learned how to defeat "spare tires" and dowager humps by exercise, they are experts in wielding powder puff and lipstick and their clothes are smart and intriguing.

But there is one beauty art in which they are deplorably ignorant. They don't know how to make up their eyes. And as a result nearly every mature woman loses fifty per cent of her good looks possibilities! Her lashes are no longer the lustrous, curling fringe they were in her teens because she has neglected them and the years have taken their toll unimpeded. The lashes are sparse, dry and greyish looking, doing absolutely nothing to enhance the appearance of her eyes, as all good lashes are supposed to do.

Well, the first step is to get a box of maybelline mascara, and you can secure the tear-proof, non-smarting kind in brown, black and blue.

Just brush a light coating on your upper lashes—none on the lower ones, please. If you brush upward it will give your lashes a lovely upward tilt that makes your eyes look larger and younger. Before the mascara dries, go over the lashes with a clean brush to remove any lumps or beads and to separate the individual hairs. Then, blend a tiny bit of cream or inconspicuous color of eyeshadow lightly on the upper lid, and behold! you have removed fifteen years from your age!

In addition to this make-up, you must learn to care for your lashes daily to keep them soft and silky and to promote their growth. Every night on retiring, remove all mascara thoroughly and then apply a good cream lash grower generously at the base of the lashes. It will nourish them and at the same time soften the thin, delicate skin on the eyelids, which is apt to get dry and wrinkled looking after 35.
